Grandstand Seat at Raid

Reporter Sees U. S. Blast Nazi Shipping

(This eyewitness account of a mass raid by United States heavy bombers on an important mission against an Axis sea transport center was written in a four-motor Consolidated "Liberator" by Edward Kennedy, veteran chief of the Associated Press correspondents covering the war on the Mediterranean front.)

By EDWARD KENNEDY.

WITH THE UNITED STATES AIR FORCE OVER GREECE, Oct. 3.—(Delayed)—(AP)—Mass formations of giant American bombers are attacking ships in Navarino bay, one of the enemy's main bases for supplying Rommel's army in Africa.

It is a daylight raid and one of the biggest and most spectacular so far made in this theater of war.

We unleash a terrific shower of heavy bombs upon our target. The enemy replies with a storm of antiaircraft shells which burst about us.

Pursuit planes attack us and our gunners meet them with concentrated fire which sends four of them crashing down into the sea in smoke and flames.

First Time Reporters Participate in Mission

(An official account of this air smash last Saturday, the second in 48 hours by heavy bombers of the United States Middle East Air Force Command, said that two large supply ships were hit squarely and exploded and that of five Axis fighters which attacked the American formation, four—three Messerschmitt 109's and a Macchi 202—were sent blazing into the sea from the B-24's guns. The Greek port of Pylos is on Navarino bay. (It is at the mouth of the Ionian sea, on the west coast of the Peloponnese in southern Greece, about 130 airline miles southwest of Athens.)

We get some scars but all our planes are safe and all our men are alive as we set off for home, leaving death and destruction behind us in Navarino bay this sunny Saturday afternoon.

We are in four-motored Consolidated B-24's of the heavy bombardment group which forms an important part of Major General Lewis H. Brereton's air force in the Middle East.

Seven war correspondents under Major Robert H. Parmham, of Norman, Okla., are on this raid, each in a different plane. It is the first time that reporters have participated in a mass American Air Force mission.

Day's Work Begins In Operations Room

It started this morning when we went to the operations room, which looks like a country schoolhouse. In place of the blackboard is a big map and before it stands Major John R. (Killer) Kane, of Shreveport, La., who will lead our planes.

Few schoolboys ever listened as eagerly as we do while he tells his airmen and us what the target will be and traces the route on the map. We are told at what height we will fly and how we will come in for the kill. A time signal is given. Everyone sets his watch to the split second. Then we go to the planes.

Once we are all off the ground we get into formation and soon are winging over the sea to our goal. This is a great armada of monster planes that looks like a naval fleet which suddenly has sprouted wings.

For a long time the sky is clear and the sun shines brightly on the sparkling blue water beneath us. Then we

U. S. Radioes French To Shun All Targets

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—(AP)—A United States Army warning to the people of occupied France to move away from objects likely to be targets for United States bombers was broadcast at frequent intervals throughout the day today by two powerful transmitters in the United States.

The warning, read just before and just after each broadcast beamed to Europe by the NBC stations WRCA and WNBI, was broadcast in French, but also was being carried to the rest of Europe in Swedish, Danish, Norwegian, German, Italian, Spanish, Portuguese, Greek and Turkish.

The text: "Listen to an important communication from the American high command to French people in the occupied zone."

"American bombing from the air is directed only to Germans and those installations which in France and other occupied territories are working for the German war machine."

"The sentiments of the United States of America toward the French people are only those of great sympathy. It is for this reason that the American high command gives you the warning which you are about to hear in order that the inhabitants of the occupied zone may take for themselves and for their families necessary measures for their safety."

"You are listening to an important communication from the American high command to the French people of the occupied zone."

United Miners Vote Complete Split With CIO

CINCINNATI, Ohio, Oct. 7.—(AP)—The United Mine Workers of America late today voted almost unanimously to withdraw from the Congress of Industrial Organizations to complete a two-year, steadily widening breach.

John L. Lewis, UMW chieftain and former CIO president, virtually told the miners in a 56-minute speech to decide between him and the CIO.

Although most speakers, previous to Lewis, asked delegates to vote against the split, only a scattering of men stood after the majority had shouted their approval of Lewis' stand.

"I think this convention in honor to itself and in honor to its officers should adopt this report (committee on officers' report which recommended withdrawal)," Lewis declared, ending the debate.

"If you do not adopt this report then you do not want a man like me as your president. You want a man with more rabbit in him than I've got," he added to set off a roof-shaking demonstration in Music Hall.

The international officers' report charged CIO with owing it $1,665,000 in negotiated loans, resulting in the UMW's refusal since last spring to pay a per capita tax to the CIO.

Augustans Are Fined For 'Blackout' Failure

AUGUSTA, Ga., Oct. 7.—(AP)—Twenty-one defendants paid fines totaling approximately $1,000 for failing to co-operate with the city's first test blackout.

Defendants included the First Baptist church which was charged with having a visible light during the test. Deacon Marion S. Symms came to court to shoulder the blame.

Democratic Convention Is All-Out for Ellis Arnall

By LAMAR Q. BALL, Constitution Staff Writer.

MACON, Ga., Oct. 7.—With a parade of chairmen, vice chairmen and temporary chairmen in attendance a ritual with the skill of Druid priests, the State Democratic Convention met and adjourned with amazing ease here today, all business accomplished without the interruption of a disturbing voice.

A monotonous rumble of "ayes" was echoed by the walls of the Macon city auditorium—in the third and half hours of business not a single "no" was voiced, even though a negative vote was solicited, occasionally.

Out of it all the Democratic ticket selected by the voters at the polls September 9 was endorsed by the chosen representatives of the Democratic party in Georgia and nothing more lies between Ellis Arnall, the state leader of the party, and the Governor's chair, other than that formality on November 3, which is known as the general election.

After a fashion, Arnall emerged from the convention ordeal today even with the blessing of the Talmadge party.

De Lacey Allen, former vice chairman of the state convention organized by Talmadge two years ago, blinked at the packed hall over a forest of flags and microphones and conceded that today's business would be a one-man show.

"Jim Peters, the chairman," said Allen, "couldn't be here today. He has been sick in Minnesota for some time. I've sorta been sick myself since September."

They had the devil of a time with that piece of scrap, and even Mrs. C. L. Crawford, mother of Therrell, was called on for help.

Pals Dig Up 'Big Bouquet' To Bomb Japs

A couple of schoolboy pals here are preparing a bouquet of bombs for a couple of pals named Hitler and Hirohito.

And they aren't kidding. They actually talk of what every single pound of scrap they gather will do to the Japs and Germans.

The boys—Therrell Crawford and Travis Spinks—actually have dug up about a ton of scrap for their share of the school drive. They are students at Perkerson.

Spattered with mud, the kids—Therrell is 14 and Travis, 13—dig out big chunks of scrap from the small branch back of Therrell's home at 111-L Lakewood avenue.

Biggest haul they've made since they started their treasure hunt for the United States was a 300-pound part of an old boiler which had been sunk into the creek bank years ago to make a spring.

They had the devil of a time with that piece of scrap, and even Mrs. C. L. Crawford, mother of Therrell, was called on for help.

15 More Executed By Nazis in Norway

LONDON, Oct. 7.—(AP)—Adolf Hitler's executioners took the lives of 15 more persons today at Trondheim, Norway, the Oslo radio announced, as Nazi administrators bore down with a reign of terror in ruthless determination to mold the country into "new order."

Along with 10 lawyers, editors, a shipowner and other prominent citizens who were executed yesterday, the total thus was brought to 25 as the result of a state of emergency imposed upon Trondheim and a coastal strip of 400 miles.

Two others today were sentenced to 10 years at hard labor, while one of a total of 18 brought before a court martial was acquitted, the radio said. All were charged vaguely with "criminal offenses."

The "criminal offenses," it was specified in later announcement, consisted of sabotage and transportation of arms.

A thorough checkup of everyone living in the area of the state of emergency was started by the Gestapo, which broadcast orders for persons normally living in the district but now residing elsewhere to register at the nearest police station immediately.

They seem to have come down and haphazardly picked out prominent citizens and shot them as a form of intimidation of the population, said the Norwegian telegraph agency here in commenting on the first 10 executed.

None of the men was under arrest, accused of a specific crime or even held as a hostage, it was said.

The acts of sabotage which provoked the executions and the state of emergency under which 700 have been arrested were not clearly explained, but the Germans have been trying to push ahead construction of a marine base and airfields at Trondheim with 25,000 dilatory workers.

By DOROTHY THOMPSON.

It is impossible to gloss over the importance of the Stalin statement. It is not put in the form of an ultimatum but it is very nearly one. Nor is there any good debating what he means by "meeting obligations fully and on time." The answer to that question is given in the text of the statement. He means that he wishes the Anglo-American world to fight and to fight now.

The Stalin statement must be taken in connection with the statement which Mr. Wilkie made from Moscow and has now repeated from Chungking, urging the opening of a second front. Mr. Wilkie in his first statement also remarked that some military leaders might need a little prodding. Since Wilkie went to Moscow as the personal emissary of the President, there is only one conclusion to be drawn from that remark—namely that the Anglo-American political leadership does not see eye to eye on all questions with the military leadership. This apparent disagreement between the military and political leadership is also not confined to the Anglo-American world. There is a split between the Nazi leadership in Germany and the German high command.

This was indicated in the Hitler speech. A large part of that speech was a rationalization of the value

Reconnaissance Fails To Reveal Any foe Left on Two Islands

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—(AP)—Japan's hold on America's western Aleutian Islands appeared tonight to be weakening rapidly. The Navy announced there was no trace of the enemy on either Attu, the westernmost island and first seized by the Japs, or on near-by Agattu, where the enemy also had placed small forces.

The Japs were still in possession of Kiska island, their most important base in the area, but so far as known that was the only island they held, and it was under repeated and heavy attack by air.

This information was given out in a Navy communiqué which cautiously refrained from claiming that the enemy actually had withdrawn from Attu and Agattu. From the announced fact that considerable aerial reconnaissance had failed to produce any sign of occupancy "for several weeks," it seemed clear, however, that a withdrawal had been effected.

'Attu Blasted.

Moreover, American bombers have now destroyed most of the buildings on Attu. Regarding Kiska, the communiqué said that "attacks by our aircraft continue" and reported specifically that on Monday Army Liberator bombers, with fighter escorts, dropped many demolition and incendiary bombs on the camp area, and scored hits on the seaplane hangar.

Six enemy fighters which rose to the counterattack were shot down at that time. The Japs also put up light antiaircraft opposition but all the American aircraft returned to their base.

The base from which the American aircraft made their latest attack on the Japs in the Aleutians undoubtedly is the newly developed operations center in the Andreanof islands, which at one point lie only 125 nautical miles from Kiska. Its occupation by Army troops and air forces was announced by the Navy last Saturday. This westward advance putting American forces more than 250 miles northwest of their original base at Dutch Harbor, and within easy bombing range of Kiska, has made the Japanese position on Kiska highly precarious if not actually untenable.

Thus it appeared that the adventure which Japanese undertook in the north Pacific last June simultaneously with their disastrous attack on the Hawaiian area at Midway might be approaching a costly close.

Whether they may make some new thrust against the Aleutians or attempt to reinforce their Kiska garrison remains to be seen. But the record does not show that they have thus far given up any place without putting forth the last ounce of effort to hold it.

The exact purpose of the Japanese invasion of the Aleutians has never been clearly defined by American military and naval authorities, who have been able only to surmise the strategy involved. These conjectures covered three possibilities in the main Pacific last

That the enemy wanted bases from which to observe and possibly intercept American supplies moving to Russia in event Japan attacked Russia.

That, in connection with their attack on Midway and conquest of the Hawaiian islands, which they expected to be successful, the Japs, planned to make a two-pronged attack on the American mainland, striking both across the central and north Pacific.

That they needed an easy victory to offset their defeat in the Coral Sea, the bombing of Tokyo and other setbacks and decided to win it in the western Aleutians, which they could "conquer" without opposition.

What Next?

Russians Span Don, Bare Nazi 'Winter' Forts

By The Associated Press.

The Russian relief offensive revealed last night what evidently was the beginning of Germany's winter line based on the Volga, thrown up by the Nazi command while constantly reinforced German shock troops expend themselves for pure prestige within the city.

Timoshenko's unflagging attacks on the steps between Don and Volga laid bare an elaborate system of hastily-erected blindages, block houses and hundreds of tanks buried in the ground and turned into pillboxes, stretching from hillcock to hillcock across the plain.

The Don river end of the line has been held in part by Rumanians—1,200 of whom, the Russians said, never will go into winter quarters. That number was reported killed when the Russians swarmed into a populated point.

Reds Bridge Don.

One report said Timoshenko had managed to throw pontoons over the Don and send harassment forces to the west bank under cover of darkness, despite Axis air attack. Some Russian troops have been fighting west of the Don for weeks, gnawing at the rearward communications of the Germans.

Meanwhile inside Stalingrad the Germans were admittedly within the depth of a factory settlement, but their constant losses made their 44-day-old attempt to conquer Stalingrad, and it was obvious that the greater part of Stalingrad remained Russian.

In the deep Caucasus, however, there were rather ominous reports of German successes. The Nazis themselves announced they had captured Malgobek, which lies south of the River Terek, about 40 miles from the Grozny oil field center and not quite so far from the start of the Georgian military highway across the high mountains.

Nazis Thwarted.

The Russians said, however, they had thwarted a major attempt by the Nazi Alpinists to cross an important range.

Timoshenko's relief offensive against the German flank ripped into a line of hundreds of Nazi "tank forts" and overran a Rumanian stronghold.

It was obvious that this Russian drive from the northwest of Stalingrad had lost no momentum. Timoshenko, for many days, has directed this onslaught in an attempt to crumble the barricade which protects the German line of supply and reinforcement into the city itself.

STEEL RAILS SCRAPPED.

TOPEKA, Oct. 7.—(AP)—An estimated 20 tons of steel rails from the Kansas free fair race track will go to the Topeka scrap heap, Maurice W. Jencks, fair secretary, said. The rails have guarded curves on the race track but "automobile racing is out for the duration anyway," Jencks said.

Stalin Letter Called Ultimatum Threatening To Play Own Hand

of the German victories in Russia. Hitler in pretending to answer Allied leaders was answering what he has unquestionably heard from his own generals—namely that the acquisition of huge territories is not a synonym for winning a war. We know now that Marshal Fedor von Bock, who resigned with Brauchitsch over the last winter campaign only to be reinstated, is again out, together with Ritter von Leeb.

Despite the gains, the German campaign in the Caucasus has failed. The timetable is off, and Hitler, in the face of the winter, is again obliged to go on the defensive—admittedly so, according to his own speech.

Stalin's statement also stated unequivocally that the Russian armies are as strong as those of any aggressor power." The Russians have not been accustomed to overstate their strength. Their armies are intact after nearly 14 months of war.

Marshal Goering's speech on Sunday confirms the rift between German political and military leadership albeit in an indirect way. He states that no generals have been shot but he adds that the government would not hesitate to shoot generals, as well as soldiers if they were cowards. Being a coward means giving a bad

Board Appointed To Help Byrnes Run War Economy

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—(AP)—With the appointment of two representatives each from labor, agriculture and management, President Roosevelt completed today the membership of a board which will assist James F. Byrnes in controlling the wartime economy of the nation.

Byrnes announced the appointments at a White House press conference. Immediately afterward he took the oath of office as director of economic stabilization. With a salary of $15,000, a fourth less than he made as an associate justice of the supreme court, Byrnes will draw as much pay as a cabinet member. He is expected to sit in on cabinet meetings.

These were the additions to the economic stabilization board: Labor representatives, William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, and Phillip Murray, president of the CIO. Farm representatives, President James G. Patton, of the Farmers Co-operative Union, and Edward O'Neal, president American Farm Bureau Federation. Representing management, Eric A. Johnston, president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, and Ralph E. Flanders, president, Jones & Lamson Machine Company, Springfield, Vermont.

In an executive order putting into effect the new antinflation law, Mr. Roosevelt had already placed on the board the secretaries of the treasury, agriculture, commerce and labor, the federal board chairman, the budget director, price administrator, and War Labor Board chairman.

On Capitol Hill, Assistant Price Administrator J. K. Galbraith disclosed to the Senate Small Business Committee that regulations establishing flat "dollar and cents" ceilings on meat products soon would be issued, to be followed during the fall by price ceilings on livestock.

Spokesmen for some 600 independent packers, who complained to the committee they had been caught in a "squeeze" between ceilings on their prices to retailers and rising livestock prices, applauded the announcement.

She put on overalls and got just as muddy as the boys before they tugged and dug the long-buried scrap from its resting place.

Other boys had to be enlisted before the big boiler part could be rolled up the hill to join automobile bodies and stoves and pipes. Therrell's toy gun is on the pile, too.

"The boys really have worked hard," Mrs. Crawford said. "Therrell was so tired Monday night he couldn't eat. And dirty. He had mud from head to toe."

"I don't know what keeps them going so strong, except they make a game out of it. Every piece of scrap they dig up is labeled for a Jap. They don't talk about the Germans much—just the Japs."

"I heard them talking about the automobile body. You know it was awfully hard to dig that up, because it was buried so deep."

"This ought to knock some old Jap's teeth back in place," Therrell was telling Travis.

"I hear them talking about what every pound will do to some Jap. And they just keep bringing it up here by the house. Pretty soon that pile's going to be big as the house."

The kids haven't run into any trouble on their rounds of the creek, although Therrell fell into the branch once and Travis picked up a piece of scrap and a snake at the same time. It wasn't a big snake and didn't scare him much, he said.

Both were a bit dubious about getting any more scrap from the neighborhood, because of the other drive held recently. But they've proved to themselves and others, they hope, there's plenty of scrap waiting to be dug up.

The work of the Perkerson school students was typical of activity all along the Fulton and DeKalb county front, where thousands of children are piling scrap in the school yards.

Students Helping. Students are enlisting their parents in the young army, and several schools reported that mothers and fathers had furnished or borrowed trucks to get the larger junk into the school yards so that the postage would count for the schools in the $1,000 contest being conducted by The Constitution and Journal.

The schools leading the newspapers' scrap drive in Decatur, Atlanta, Fulton and DeKalb county schools will receive $250 each, besides the money for which the scrap is sold. The newspapers also are furnishing pennants for classes which reach the 100-pound-per-pupil goal and badges for the student who reach that quota.

Many students already have qualified for the red, white and blue badges. Officials of the drive yesterday urged the public to be patient about the pick-up of scrap from curbs and homes. This part of the three-week campaign does not start until Monday.

Phase of Collection. The city will be divided into sections, and each of the 12 days devoted to this phase of collection will cover a different section. Information about the collections to be conducted, starting next week, will be printed in both papers.

Wrecking crews to dismantle furnaces and other large fixtures are being furnished by the Federation of Labor. A crew may be obtained by calling WALnut 2035.

Proceeds of the scrap picked up from curbs will go to the USO. For any information about the scrap drive, telephone WALnut 2035.

Scrap in more than ton lots will be picked up any time by scrap dealers. They may be contacted directly and will send a truck after scrap which weighs a ton or more.

Byrd's Autogiro Goes to Scrap Pile

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 7.—(AP) An autogiro used by Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd on his second Antarctic expedition will be dumped on the city's growing scrap metal heap tomorrow. The owners, Maurice L. Strauss and Emanuel Rosenfield, president and vice president, respectively, of Pep Boys, originally sold the craft to Byrd, then bought it back after the expedition ended. The autogiro has been in dead storage for several years.

Pickpocket Given Double Term in Prison

Mike Faver Convicted of Taking Purse of Atlantian, 71.

Mike Faver, known, according to police records as a pickpocket in many American cities, was sentenced yesterday to serve two 12-month sentences in Tattall prison for simple larceny by Judge Jesse M. Wood, of the criminal court of Fulton county.

Faver was arrested in August 1941, but was released on bond, which was defaulted. He was recently recaptured in Chicago and brought back to Atlanta.

According to the evidence, Frank Hill, who also defaulted his bond and has not been apprehended, picked, with the aid of Faver, the pocket of S. J. Campbell, 71, as he got off a street car at the corner of Marietta and Forsyth streets.

Faver was nabbed and while the police were waiting for the patrol wagon, witnesses said Hill came up and sought to put the stolen pocketbook back into Campbell's pocket. He, too, was seized.

Faver's police record dates back to 1914.

Loan Rates on Corn, Wheat Unchanged To Aid Meat Output

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—(AP)—Secretary of Agriculture Wickard announced today that government loan rates to farmers on corn and wheat would be kept at 85 per cent of parity to encourage maximum production of meat, dairy and poultry products for war needs. Wickard acted at the direction of James F. Byrnes, director of economic stabilization.

SUBURBAN CHAIRMAN
—George P. Whitman, of College Park, yesterday was named to head the suburban division of the Community Fund Appeal by C. A. Stair, general chairman.

G. P. Whitman To Head Fund's Suburbs Drive

Leader Urges Best Efforts of All To Put Appeal Across

George P. Whitman, city attorney of College Park, accepted yesterday the chairmanship of the suburban division of the Community Fund Appeal, it was announced by C. A. Stair, general appeal chairman.

Whitman's acceptance marks another step in the steadily expanding organization to carry the story of the Fund to all citizens of Fulton and DeKalb counties.

Leaders in the entire suburban area served by the Fund agencies will be drawn into the appeal for the support of the work during the critical wartime year ahead.

In announcing the appointment of Whitman, Stair said: "The important suburban division will play an important part in the total success of our appeal. The work of the division serves to illustrate that human need knows no geographical boundaries. The Fund agencies serve throughout Fulton and DeKalb counties, and will continue to serve, to the limit of the money provided by the community, wherever there is need."

Whitman will recruit leaders and workers to conduct the appeal in DeKalb and DeKalb counties, East Point, College Park, Hapeville, Fairburn, Palmetto, Roswell and Alpharetta.

"The point we are emphasizing in the work of our division," Whitman said, "is that this is a metropolitan responsibility. The work of the Fund agencies does not stop at city or county limits. This is proved by the fact that a study of the record of only six of the 32 agencies for a six-month period showed 2,379 persons served in the suburban areas. Human needs must be met wherever they exist."

"The war, with its new problems and responsibilities, is teaching us all the lesson of sharing. We must all work together and we are all dependent on each other. No section of this country, or individual state, is going to win the war alone. No section of our metropolitan area, or group of people, is going to put the Fund Appeal over alone. It is going to take the best efforts of all of us."

"I think I can speak for the people living in the territory coming under the suburban division. We shall do our part."

BIG DREDGE FOR SCRAP.
GLENN FERRY, Idaho, Oct. 7. (AP)—A big dredge, idle and useless where it stood in the near-by Snake river for years, is going on the junk pile. Expected yield: Seventy tons of old iron and steel.

Loan officials said the increased rates were not expected to have any direct effect on market prices of cotton, tobacco and rice. These commodities are bringing farmers in excess of 90 per cent of parity. Because of this situation, no tobacco has been put under loan. The loan program serves as a "floor" under prices and is designed to keep market prices from falling below loan rates.

Officials said the increase could be expected to have some price boosting effect on peanuts for the edible trade. They have been bringing farmers less than 80 per cent of parity.

Changes in rates were as follows:

Cotton—Base rate for middling 15-16-inch cotton increased from 16.22 to 17.22 cents a pound. The increase was a cent a pound above rates previously announced for all grades, staples and locations.

Rice—Average rate increased from $1.05 to $1.11 a bushel.

Marketing Quotas.

Peanuts—(Applies only to those produced for sale under marketing quotas and not to those grown for processing into vegetable oil) No. 1 Class A Virginia type increased from $133 to $140 per ton; No. 1 Southeastern Spanish increased from $133 to $141; No. 1 Southwestern increased from $131 to $139; and No. 1 runner increased from $120 to $127.

The wheat loan rate will remain at $1.40 a bushel average at the farm. The corn rate has not been announced. On the basis of the present parity price, it would be about $2.29 cents a bushel.

Wickard said neither the wheat nor the corn loan would lose by keeping the loan rate at 85 per cent of parity since they have been assured parity return by benefit payments.

The increased rates go into effect immediately and are retroactive on loans already made on 1942 crops.

Coast Traffic Violators May Pay With Scrap
SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 7.—(AP) Traffic violators appearing before Municipal Judge George B. Harris will have an opportunity, hereafter, of making voluntary contributions to the scrap metal drive rather than paying fines.

"In lieu of high fines for traffic offenses," the judge announced, "I am going to suggest that traffic violators voluntarily surrender the front and rear bumpers of their cars to the scrap drive."

Anyway, he said, the fines don't seem to do any good in curbing violations, and the bumpers are virtually useless with slower speed driving.

Hen Predicts War Victory At Gloster

SPECIAL TO THE CONSTITUTION.
LAWRENCEVILLE, Ga., Oct. 7. Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Lanier, at Gloster, near here, have a hen that while she can cackle instead of talk, she apparently has heard of the war, probably from Mr. Lanier, who is a defense worker in a war plant.

For four consecutive days the hen laid an egg with a letter on it. The first day the raised letter on the shell was "U," and then the next day it was "S," and the third "A." This represented the good old U. S. A. all right, but the hen was apparently not satisfied with being just a plain American hen, so she added another letter to the egg on the fourth day, and she predicted victory, for the letter on the egg was "V."

The eggs have created much interest and people come miles to see the freaks.

An empty house is more expensive than a Want Ad in The Constitution that will rent it.

Oat Sowing Begins As Harvest Ends

Sowing of oats and wheat is now underway in many parts of the state, following completion of the harvesting of peanuts.

The weekly summary of weather and crop conditions issued by the Weather Bureau indicates the need of additional rain for crop advancement, especially in truck and pasture areas.

Cotton picking, completed in the southern section and in many of the central counties, continues in the north portion, where a scarcity of laborers is considered serious but not grave. Good progress in harvesting of corn and sweet potatoes is reported.

1,000 POUNDS OF SCRAP.

Debutantes Open Ticket Booths For CAP Trainer Plane Ball

Members of the Debutantes Club will start selling tickets for the Civil Air Patrol trainer plane ball today at booths in front of the Paramount theater, Leo S. Bosarge, commander of the Atlanta squadron, announced yesterday.

Interest in the dance, which will be held at the municipal auditorium Monday night, is increasing daily, Bosarge pointed out. "The fact that I received checks for $100 and $50 from Yankees who couldn't figure out why they were helping 'Rebels' buy planes started something. Atlanta business firms want to know why."

The ball, sponsored by the Fifth District posts of American Legion, is being held to raise money to buy planes for training more pilots. It is part of a replacement program, the Army and Navy having taken many pilots from the CAP ranks.

By having its own planes, the Atlanta squadron will be able to add to the pilots' flying time quicker and more economically, qualifying them for patrol work.

Carpenter Sees Religion Revival

War To Bring Return to God, General Says

Salvation Army Head Cites Reappraisal of Values.

By CELESTINE SIBLEY.
God is taking sides in World War II, but 70-year-old Australian-born General George L. Carpenter, international head of the Salvation Army, is not prepared to say unequivocally that the Almighty is on the side of the United Nations.

"Rather let us say," he urged gently, "that God is on the side of righteousness. The Salvation Army is an international organization—we have workers all over the world and they are entitled to their own political beliefs. Whatever my personal views on the subject—and I do have my personal views about democracy—I'm not prepared to give out any hot air that will result in pain and suffering to our members in those other countries."

Revival of Religion.
Instead, General Carpenter's message for people everywhere is the lesson which he expects this war to bring: A general revival of religion—a return to God.

"It will not be in the form of a religious revival," the gray-haired, blue-uniformed officer said. "But at the same time it has the portents of a revival. The war, through suffering, is causing a reappraisal of values. People had lost their sense of direction. They have chosen their own way instead of God's way. But when all material things vanish—when you stand in a bombed city and see your home and your business, everything you own except the clothes you stand in, blown to bits, you begin to adjust your sense of values. Those who have faith in something beyond material possessions are not bereft."

Entered Work at 19.
The general, who humorously describes his own efforts to find sleep in blitz-torn London by "burrowing like a rabbit under the front stairs," became a Salvation Army worker 51 years ago, when he was 19 years old.

"I thought I was an agnostic," admitted the general with a twinkle in his eye. "I was a boyish conceit."

He became an officer in the Army in Raymond Terrace, Australia, in 1920, and his tours of duty have included service in Argentina, Paraguay, Uruguay, Alaska, Canada, Bermuda and Newfoundland. A worker in his father's printshop in his youth, General Carpenter boasts he got "printer's ink in my veins then" and has never outgrown his enthusiasm for newspapering.

NO HATE IN WAR—General George L. Carpenter, international leader of the Salvation Army, said in a press conference yesterday at the Biltmore hotel he does not believe the war is generating hate and bitterness. He reads his favorite passage of scripture, "My God shall supply all your needs," to Celestine Sibley, Constitution staff writer. The general speaks here Sunday.

He was Australian editor of the Salvation Army magazine, "War Cry," for many years and married one of its best known and most popular writers.

Likes Mobile Canteens.
Mrs. Carpenter, who accompanied the general to Atlanta but did not attend his press conference yesterday at the Biltmore hotel, was an active Salvation Army corps officer in Australia and later editor of "The Young Soldier," a Salvation Army publication, before her marriage.

General Carpenter is enthusiastic over the Army's mobile canteens, which dispense food and clothing to citizens in bombed areas.

Big trucks equipped with urns for making hot tea, and a little stove for preparing and keeping food can converge on any badly hit area within a short time and get immediate relief to sufferers.

The traditional picture of bonneted Salvation Army lassies going about on errands of mercy, dispensing hot drinks and doughnuts to soldier boys and supplying warm clothing for freezing orphans, is only partially correct, General Carpenter feels.

Army's First Purpose.
"The Salvation Army's first purpose is religious," he pointed out. "Social work is a means to an end. If a man has never had a chance, if he is hungry and ill-clothed, it's difficult to get him to think of his soul."

And that brought forth from a worn, well-marked little Bible which lay on a table near General Carpenter's hand, his favorite passage of scripture: "My God shall supply all your needs." "My God shall supply all your needs," repeated the white-haired

Gray Indicted In Slaying of Atlanta Woman

Housewife Bludgeoned to Death, Son Beaten in Tennessee.

Judge Jay Gray, Alabama ex-soldier, was indicted yesterday by the Marion county (Tenn.) grand jury in connection with the slaying last September 2 of Mrs. Louise Holmes, former Atlanta housewife, near Shellmound, Tenn., the Associated Press said last night.

Circuit Judge Alan S. Kelly set trial for November 4 and ordered Gray sent to the Central State hospital at Nashville for examination by state alienists. Judge Kelly also said the defense may have access to Gray for examination by its experts.

Mrs. Holmes was bludgeoned to death before the eyes of her nine-year-old son Jackie in famed Nickajack cave by a man who offered to show them through the cave, the youngster told police. The boy also was badly beaten.

Officers arrested Gray a short distance within Alabama a few hours after the attack. Waiving extradition, he was returned to Jasper, Tenn., and then escorted to Chattanooga where Jackie, from a hospital bed, identified him as the man who struck his mother.

Gray has been held without bond since his arrest. Two days before the attack, Mrs. Holmes and her son visited relatives in Atlanta. Mrs. Holmes told a sister here that she had been promised a job in Tennessee and was going to see about it.

The mother and son were invited to go inside the cave while they waited between trains, Jackie told police. He said the man he later identified as Gray "got mad and struck mama" when she refused to venture very far into the cave.

Treasury Offers Securities Today

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—(P)—The Treasury announced tonight it would offer for sale tomorrow morning $4,000,000,000 of securities, comprising the largest single borrowing operation of the present war.

The borrowing, which will raise the treasury debt above $95,000,000,000 will give investors a choice of two different types of securities.

They will be invited to buy either 2 per cent 8-10-year bonds or 1 1/2 per cent 4-year and 2-month Treasury notes. Departing from usual practice, the Treasury assigned no quota to either type of issue, and announced that the $4,000,000,000 would be divided between the two issues in proportion to the preference shown by investors for the two types.

Richards Heads Oxford Students

SPECIAL TO THE CONSTITUTION.
OXFORD, Oct. 7.—(P)—Charles Richards, son of Dr. and Mrs. W. R. Richards, of Greensboro, was today named president of the Emory at Oxford student body.

Richards was named to the high student office to succeed John Webb, of Orlando, Fla., who did not return to school this quarter. The new student head is prominent in all campus activities. He is president of the college glee club, and a varsity member of the Company C football and basketball teams.

Ed Tanner, of Baldwin, Fla., was chosen vice president of the Oxford student body. Tanner has served as vice president of the Phi Delta Omega, honor pre-medical class. He is a varsity member of the Company B football and basketball teams.

Eastman Asks Revision Of School Bus Schedules

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—(P)—Defense Transportation Director Joseph B. Eastman called tonight for a revision of school bus schedules "on the assumption that the physically able child can walk two miles to and from school, where weather conditions permit."

Eastman gave assurance that the 4,000,000 American girls and boys who must ride school busses will continue to get to their classes this winter, but declared that "school districts everywhere should survey their bus service at once to determine where curtailments may be made."

Build Up Scrap Piles

For April, Sykes Says
CHICAGO, Oct. 7.—(P)—President Wilfred Sykes, of the Inland Steel Company, today asserted "we must build up large enough scrap piles during October and November to carry us through until April or we will surely have a serious breakdown in steel production."

"Now scrap is coming in a little faster than we are using it," he said, "but I am not despairing that we will build up a big enough backlog to take care of all the winter months, at which time very little scrap moves."

Reporter Sees U. S. Smashing Nazi Shipping

run into heavy cloud banks which are rare in this region. So much to the good: they screen us.

For hours we fly. Then, as we near our goal we ascend to the designated altitude. We all look a little like Mickey Mouse in the black anodized which are oxygen masks. It is cold up here and I see that a fly which has come with us has expired for lack of air.

Co-Pilot Signals.

It will not be long now. Our co-pilot, Lieutenant David S. Watt, of Lancaster, Pa., signals me. Then we see land, land which embraces the almost land-locked bay of Navarino at the southwest tip of Greece.

We see ships in this bay: wrecked ships of previous raids; dummy ships of concrete set in the water to deceive us. We also see two real ships moored almost side by side—big ships laden with supplies for Rommel. Those are the ships we want.

We go in. But our commander, Kane, is not satisfied with our formation so we go out again, swerve around in a big circle and in again. This time it is just what he wants.

The kill is on. Around those two ships is a geometric line and our job is to make all our bombs fall inside a square formed by that line. We have so many bombs to drop and such big ones that if we all do this the ships cannot escape.

Bombardier Lets Go.

Our bombardier, Lieutenant George J. Lyons, of Conitum, R. I., lets them in. In quick succession, these big ugly packages of death which we have been carrying leave the plane.

I am in the very last of many planes going over the target. This means I have the best grandstand seat of all the correspondents. It also means that our plane is the likeliest to get attacked and the likeliest to get into the way of attack.

Below I can see the bombs splashing into the water all around the ships. In the middle of one ship is a great black blotch which may be smoke or a gaping hole. Then I see a red tongue which looks like fire. From this height and at this speed it is difficult to see exactly what is happening below. I only know that it must be hell for anyone down there.

I see black bursts of ack-ack shells. I am just thinking how glad I am they are not near when a jolt almost knocks me off my feet, then another succeeds in doing so. I see two bursts as shells explode just beneath us.

Our pilot, First Lieutenant John R. Muehlberg, of Montclair, N. J., swerves and dives to get out of the ack-ack fire. The mountain peaks in the distance dance all around us and I am not sure whether I am standing on my head or my feet. I only know that Muehlberg is a pilot I would bet on any day.

Close Formation.

Somehow, we are in a closely knit formation again, so close we can almost reach out and touch our companion planes.

All our planes bear the unofficial names given them by their crews—something like the names of racehorses. In our V-shaped final element of this raid is "Snow White." Our plane is the "Jersey Jerk."

They come at us—enemy pursuit planes. There are at least four of them. One charges in while the others cautiously hang outside. He comes at us, the final plane.

Our tail gunner is Sergeant Norman F. Brandt, of Manitowoc, Wis., and Norman is ready for him. He puts up a fire which beats him off. The glass above Norman's head cracks as a bullet, presumably, glances off it. That

Man Shot by Soldier May Be Paid Damages

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—(AP)—Payment of $3,713.50 to David E. Clark, a farmer of Wrens, Ga., for injuries sustained when he was shot by a soldier who was in a motor convoy passing Clark's home March 2, 1942, has been approved by the house and sent the bill to the senate.

The War Department advised the house claims committee that "appropriate disciplinary action was taken by the military authorities with respect to the soldiers involved in the shooting."

The War Department also said while the government was not legally liable it would nevertheless interpose no objection to the payment to Clark.

was the only scar we got. I owe my life to Norman.

But on leaving us, the attacking plane goes for "The Witch," which is just ahead of us to the left. Then other enemy fighters come in. One is an Italian Macchi, the other is a German Messerschmitt and they are after "The Witch."

At this second I cannot see the attacking planes, but I can see "The Witch's" side being drilled with holes—27 holes, as later proved by count.

Bullets All About. We all fire at the attackers. Big bullets, half an inch thick, are flying all around. The output of 15 guns from our planes is concentrated on them.

"The Witch" is taking the brunt of the attack. A big window on its side is open. There stands the gunner, exposed from the waist up, firing at them. A bullet crashes into "The Witch's" side and goes right through the gunner's knee. He does not flinch. He sticks to his gun and keeps firing. He is Sergeant Norman Frost, of Miami, Fla.

Two other men in "The Witch" are slightly wounded. They are Technical Sergeants Joseph E. Farmer, of St. Charles, Va., and Marvin L. Breeding, of Dallas, Texas.

In their compartment is Henry Gorrell, of the United Press, whom I have known and competed with since the days of the Spanish civil war. For the first time, I feel sorry for Henry. But not need to. He is splattered with Frost's blood, but he is not hit. He puts a tourniquet on Frost's leg. The other two wounded sergeants help and only when the job is finished do they reveal that they are injured (although not dangerously) too.

We are flying close together and every gun we can train on the attackers is in action. Blood has been drawn on our side and all our sergeant gunners are angry, swearing as they shoot.

Attacker Destroyed. One of the attacking planes goes down in smoke, the pilot descending to the ground by parachute. The other goes down in flames. The pilot bails out but his parachute does not open. The pair which attacked a formation such as this are death or glory boys and they got the former.

We now sweep across the southern stretch of Greece and out to sea. All our bombs have fallen in the harbor. None has fallen on the soil of Greece; we do not want to kill Greeks.

The navigator of "The Witch" is Second Lieutenant Peter L. Vlahakes, of Newark, N. J., who is getting his first glimpse of the land of his ancestors and we are bombing only 50 miles from the town his father left 30 years ago to go to America.

For me, this is a special day. A year and a half ago I was bombed from the Olympus line to Thermopylae, then to Piraeus, bombed again at sea, dive-bombed in Suda bay and machine-gunned as I slept under olive trees in Crete. I finally arrived in Egypt with a brave but defeated army so "bomb happy" I could hardly write the story. I felt then we would return to Greece one day. But I never thought it would be like this—to be taken back there by our own American planes, to be with Americans like these and to be on the giving instead of the taking end of a bombing.

Atlanta Roster for Navy Day Is Announced

The complete roster of the Navy Day committee in Atlanta was announced yesterday by Roy Gentry, Georgia state chairman for the celebration, October 27.

Alvin B. Cates Sr. is general chairman of the Atlanta committee, and Lieutenant Commander George C. Griffin, U. S. N. R., of the Tech R. O. T. C. unit, is vice chairman.

Other Atlantans appointed on this committee include:

Mayor William B. Hartsfield, Captain J. V. Babcock, U. S. N. (retired), commanding officer of the Tech Naval R. O. T. C. unit; Hurd J. Crain, who is also Georgia vice president of the Navy League; L. F. Montgomery, Dr. David Marx, Monsignor Joseph E. Moynlan, Jackson P. Dick, J. E. Warren, H. Carl Wolf, N. Baxter Maddox, Bishop John Moore Walker, Henry

M. Powell, Ralph McGill, George Biggers, J. S. Roberts, William Murrah, Lewis Gordon, Police Chief M. A. Hornsby, Marcus Bartlett, Dan Hornsby, John Fulton, Lee Bennett, William Key, Fred Moon, Dr. Ryland Knight, Dr. Willis A. Sutton, Dr. Knox Walker.

Navy Day was first sponsored by the Navy League of the United States in 1922. The league is a volunteer association of individuals who seek to place information concerning the Navy before the public, and since the first observance the official approval and co-operation of practically all patriotic and veterans organizations have been offered in support of the observance of the day.

October 27 is celebrated as Navy Day because it is the anniversary of the birth of President Theodore Roosevelt, so much of whose life was devoted to establishing a sound naval policy for the United States.

October 27 also is the birthday of the Navy, because on that day in 1775 the first resolution to authorize American warships was introduced into the continental congress, which measure was passed three days later.

This year, the first Navy Day celebration since World War II engulfed the United States, the slogan is, "Your Navy—the First Line of Attack," and the day will be dedicated as "Buy War Bonds Day." Proclamations already have been issued by Governor Tamm and Mayor Hartsfield. Complete details of the ceremonies and events for this occasion will be announced shortly by the committee headed by Cates.

Arnall Wins All-Out Support at Parley

I extend to the Governor-elect my sincere congratulations. It was the first time Arnall has heard those words officially from the Talmadge bloc. Allen then handed the gavel over to Ham McWhorter, of Oglethorpe county, who started the show for the Arnall crowd.

For three and a half hours then, the business proceeded at a merry clip, with mountains of typewritten manuscripts being piled in front of the squad of convention secretaries.

Atkinson Nominated.

Other than the smooth and unopposed acceptance of the vote of the electors, the highlight of the day was the committee's nomination of William Y. Atkinson, chairman of the convention, to be the Democratic party's candidate for the post of associate justice of the Georgia supreme court, a spot on the ballot left vacant by the death three days ago of Justice Samuel E. Atkinson.

The convention roared and stomped its approval of the selection of Atkinson.

While the nomination of Atkinson was unanimous, it was pointed out by political observers that Governor Talmadge has the power to appoint a successor to the late justice.

Another highlight of the convention was the announcement of decisions from the contest committee on three contested races.

The committee declared William Butts, of Blue Ridge, to be the party's candidate for representative from Fannin county—the decision being that Butts had received 500 votes and Dr. E. L. Prince 330.

Kaigler Indorsed.

G. O. Kaigler was indorsed by the contest committee as the Democratic nominee for state senator from the 12th district.

The committee also decided that Hugh L. Claxton and R. W. Ferguson will both have their names on the general election ballot in the race for representative from Camden county.

The convention leaders today stuck closely to the program they had planned and announced last Sunday. From the floor of the auditorium, Roy Harris, former speaker of the house, handled the business of the day, leaping to his feet and scrambling under a heavy brass chain with the agility of an anthropoid as he delivered resolution after resolution to the convention for adoption, and adopted they were.

No Dissenting Votes.

Jimmy Carmichael, temporary chairman; Ham McWhorter, vice chairman; Bill Atkinson, permanent chairman, who later resigned when he was offered for the supreme court post; Lon Duckworth, who ultimately was elected permanent chairman to succeed Atkinson—all the chairmen had the Harris resolutions hurriedly read and quickly adopted without a dissenting vote. No steam-rolling tactics were needed to hold down an opposition today. There was no opposition here.

The show was all-out for Ellis Arnall.

The young attorney general who succeeded to the gubernatorial helm in January was given a tremendous ovation by an audience that leaped to its feet when Arnall was led to the rostrum to accept officially the nomination of the Democratic party.

Tears Fill Eyes.

At the start of his speech, the 35-year-old nominee broke and was forced to halt his speech for a few moments as tears welled to his eyes and his vocal chords failed him for his first time.

"I wish my uncle and former law partner, Alvan H. Freeman, were here today," said Arnall. Then his voice choked.

Alvan Freeman took young Ellis Arnall into his law office at Newnan when the young man was graduated from the University of Georgia School of Law. Alvan Freeman taught his nephew the science of the practice of honest law and pounded into him day by day a sense of his obligation to his state and his fellow citizens.

Voice Fails Him.

Alvan Freeman died some years ago, but the young man he trained will be Georgia's Governor for the next four years—selected by voters who were demanding decency and honesty in government. "I wish my uncle could be here today," Arnall repeated as his eyes filled with tears. Then he stopped.

He tried several times in that tense moment to go on but his voice had failed him. Then as he fought for control of his emotions, Arnall said:

"I wish my brother, who is in the Army, could be here today." In a few moments, as a hushed audience sat in sympathetic silence, Arnall regained control and swung into a vibrant speech of the sort that won him victory as he stumbled through Georgia recently. He was cheered and applauded as he said:

"The people of Georgia have expressed confidence in me and my desire to turn the government back to them. This, I will fortrightly do with the help of a patriotic, cooperative general assembly.

"I want to be the Governor of all the people in this state and, God willing, that I shall do. . . . They were determined that a new day should dawn in Georgia. I am determined that they shall not suffer disappointment. . . ."

"As Governor, I pledge to this convention and to the people that our administration will remove the stigma of the pardon racket for all time for Georgia. . . ."

"We will take away from the Governor the right to remove from office the comptroller general and the state treasurer. We shall insist that the state auditor be elected by the legislature rather than serve as the appointee of the Governor. . . ."

is announcement that he will fight to help the farmers drew heavy applause.

But thunderous cheers voiced approval when he said:

"As your war-time Governor, I pledge that the first consideration of your new state administration will be to render all possible service and co-operation to our commander-in-chief, Franklin D. Roosevelt, in the winning of this war. This is no time to tolerate internal bickering, strife or friction. . . ."

The convention later indorsed a resolution, pledging Georgia's all-out aid to the President.

But strangely, as an evidence of the war's effect on the patriotic mind, Arnall drew tremendous applause when he said:

"I call upon the Democrats of Georgia and especially upon my own strong friends not to undertake to embarrass me about patronage and state appointments. We are going to cut personnel to the bone. We are going to decrease the number of jobs in state service rather than increase them."

"I here and now tell you that as your Governor I cannot give all of my friends jobs. I am not going to try to, and I hope that my real friends will not be insistent with patronage requests."

Another point that won heavy approval was his statement:

"During my administration we will welcome to Georgia those who live beyond the confines of our state. We are glad to count among our finest citizens those who have come here from the east, the north, the west and other sections. I am proud of my wife who happened to have been a native of another state. We are proud of our adopted citizens. We welcome all good Americans to Georgia. . . ."

Senator Russell, who also appeared on the platform to accept his renomination to the United States senate, spoke briefly.

"We Democrats of Georgia," he said, "can stage real Kilkenny cat fights when we are campaigning, but after the elections our wounds heal easily."

Russell swung around into a discussion of the war and a comment against those who complain about the way this nation's fight is being handled.

"There are those who say we are losing this war," he said. "I do not belong to that school of thought."

"When we have had total mobilization and bring the full power of our resources to the aid of the armed forces, the Axis is bound to crack."

Russell warned standards of living "are coming down in this war. Taxes and rationing are bound to make it so."

"When we consider the sacrifices our boys are making in the Solomon islands, we can realize the price we pay at home is mighty cheap."

Russell praised Russia as a "powerful good partner to have in a scrap, even if a lot of us don't agree with all the theories of the Russian government."

In the swiftly moving program of the convention, Mayor Charles L. Bowden, of Macon, welcomed the delegates; the Rev. J. W. Veatch, of the First Methodist church, of Newnan, delivered the invocation; James V. Carmichael, of Cobb county, delivered the keynote address; W. D. Lanier, of Richmond county, nominated Carmichael as temporary chairman, and Wright Mitchell, of Whitfield, seconded.

Hatton Lovejoy, of Troup county, nominated permanent chairman, William Y. Atkinson, and Frank Foley, of Muscogee county, seconded; Spence Grayson, of Chatham county, nominated executive vice chairman, J. Lon Duckworth, of DeKalb county, and D. F. McClatchey, of Fulton county, seconded; N. F. Culpepper, of Meriwether county, nominated second vice chairman, Hamilton McWhorter, and Ben Fortson, of Wilkes county, seconded; Hamilton Holt, of Bibb county, nominated Miss Grace Cannington as permanent secretary, and Fletcher Manley, of Morgan county, seconded; Paul S. Etheridge Jr., of Fulton county, nominated P. T. ## Money in Circulation

Now $100 a Person

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—(AP)—Money in circulation in this country has for the first time in history reached an average of more than $100 per person, the Treasury disclosed today.

On September 30 there was $13,707,554,440 worth of coin and currency in circulation, equal to $102.04 for every man, woman and child in the nation. This compared with $98.32 at the end of August and $76.23 a year ago.

Money in circulation has been increasing rapidly under the war production program because of increased business needs for cash and also, to some extent, because of hoarding.

British Hope America Hits Homers at Hitler

LONDON, Oct. 7. — (AP) — Under the heading, "No Blues in St. Louis," the Glasgow Herald published today a 500-word editorial on the World Series victory of the St. Louis Cardinals.

"Most people in Britain don't know a home run from a Jeep," it said, "but we are not now so unwise as to sneer at baseball as grown-up rounders (a children's game in Britain)."

"We shall be grateful for the Americans, be they from St. Louis or New York, who hit home runs against Hitler."

Carmichael's Keynote Talk Asks Backing

Cooperation of All With New Governor Urged at Convention.

SPECIAL TO THE CONSTITUTION.
MACON, Ga., Oct. 7. — (AP) — Ellis Arnall's success as Governor of Georgia will depend on the men who will be appointed to carry out the functions of the state government, James V. Carmichael, of Cobb county, warned the state Democratic convention here today in his keynote address.

"We have just completed one of the most momentous political campaigns in the history of Georgia politics," Carmichael declared. "That campaign is now history. This convention is assembled to lay the foundation for Georgia's future."

Immediately after they are sworn into office, the Democratic nominees for the state senate and house will proceed to enact laws that will set into operation a program of decent and Democratic government, he said.

University System

The independence of the University System of Georgia will be guaranteed by statutes and amendments from political interference, Carmichael declared. He added that new laws will abolish "once and for all the iniquitous pardon system."

Carmichael also pledged the new legislature to give back to the representatives of the people control of tax dollars, and promised a state patrol freed from political ties.

"Under the leadership of Ellis Arnall, Georgia will again take her place with the other great states of the Union and she will keep step to the tune of national unity and all-out co-operation in the war effort," he said.

"We are not yet even close to

Well-To-Do Cat Gives Chest $10

PORTLAND, Maine, Oct. 7. — (AP) — The greater Portland war chest received $10 today from a cat—Minnie, the well-to-do mascot of a crew of power company linemen. A few months ago Minnie gave the USO $25 and the Red Cross $10.

When a vending machine was installed at the line crew's headquarters, it was agreed that Minnie should have all the profits. Today her bank balance is close to $100.

winning the war," Carmichael went on. "I do not believe we will lose it. I sincerely believe capital and labor will work together unselfishly to produce war supplies in sufficient quantities to defeat our enemies."

Every man, woman and child—regardless of creed or color—must pull together to achieve a perfect national unity, he said, adding: "Let factionalism and politics be buried. Let us stand together in the dark days which lie ahead, willing and ready to make every sacrifice required to win this great conflict."

New enterprises are pouring into Georgia as a result of the war effort, Carmichael continued.

"After the war these enterprises and these new skills the people of Georgia are learning will be converted into providing luxuries for all the peoples of the world," he said. "Georgia will occupy an enviable position in industry."

"All of this is just beginning to bud, and it will blossom into full bloom during the peace that will follow the war."

"Every citizen of Georgia must pledge complete co-operation to Ellis Arnall," Carmichael continued.

"Arnall's success will depend to a large extent upon the men appointed to carry on the various functions of our state government. His success also will depend largely upon the manner in which the people of Georgia co-operate with him."

Thousands wrote. "Literally thousands of people wrote in to campaign headquarters stating that they had never taken any interest in politics before and that their only interest in this campaign was to restore democracy and decency to Georgia's government."

"The real friends of Ellis Arnall and the real friends of good government in Georgia will not seek to embarrass the governor-elect by asking him to make political appointments. This is a time when the state jobs must seek the man, not the man the jobs."

"It is the hope of this convention that our nominee for governor will be permitted to surround himself with honest, true and loyal Americans who are capable of discharging the duties of the office to which they are appointed and whose desire is to give to Georgia a decent and an honest state government to the end that Georgia again may hold her head high and may do her full part in the war effort."

Terrain Slows Allied Offense In New Guinea

Mountain Range 'Incredibly Difficult,' War Bulletin Declares.

GENERAL MACARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, Australia, Thursday, Oct. 8. — (AP) — The Allied ground offensive through the Owen Stanley mountains of New Guinea has been slowed by the difficulties of the terrain, a communique said today.

The official war bulletin from southwest Pacific headquarters explained the slackening pace of the 10-day advance with the comment:

"This incredibly difficult range of mountains presents almost insuperable complications in maintenance of supply lines for troop units of any size."

It suggested that General MacArthur's Australian jungle fighters now were finding themselves confronted with the same problems which halted the Japanese in their earlier attempt to push through the same mountains for an attack on Port Moresby, Allied base in southern New Guinea.

Tire Boards Told To Act on Recaps

Georgia OPA ration boards were urged yesterday by Martin L. Johnson, state rationing officer, to act promptly on all clearly eligible applications for certificates permitting recapping of worn tires.

Pointing out this was an extremely desirable conservation move, Johnson likewise urged car owners to protect the tire carcasses and "if possible have them recapped before they are destroyed by being used beyond the point of recapping."

He made it clear that monthly recapping "quotas" referred to recapping of tires on applicants' automobiles and not to actual recapped tires available for sale.

Proof of the Pudding

There have been numerous criticisms of the planes with which the air forces of the United States are fighting this war. Many of these have been unfavorable.

A military subcommittee on aviation, of the house of congress, has made careful investigation into these adverse criticisms and now reports United States Army planes "are more than a match for any of the planes that are now pitted against them."

In support of this finding the subcommittee submits official statistics showing that American planes, in actual combat, are knocking down two to three enemy planes for every one of our own that is lost. For one 30-day period the ratio of enemy plane losses to our own was 7.5 to 1, in our favor.

"The proof of the pudding is the eating thereof." If we can maintain such a ratio of air victory, no one should be dissatisfied with the planes, their pilots, gunners and other crew members. It is merest common sense to look at the box score.

There will, of course, be better planes built. It is not the American habit to be satisfied. Constant improvement is the rule in all activities, of war or peace. However, it must be remembered that drastic changes in plane models mean equally drastic changes in machine tools and assembly organization in the factories. Such changes involve delay in output while they are being made. So long as our planes continue to show a two-to-one, or better, superiority over the enemy ships we are winning the war in the air. And it may be wiser to continue uninterrupted production of the present models than to invite output delay by making frequent changes in plans and specifications.

To Help the CAP

Next Monday the Civil Air Patrol will give a Trainer Plane ball at the city auditorium. Beyond the opportunity this affords Atlantans for an evening of pleasure is that of helping in a vital part of the war effort.

The Civil Air Patrol was organized before Pearl Harbor to meet the demands for an auxiliary air service. The members receive no pay for their services except when on active duty directly connected with the war effort. All training expenses, all uniforms, many missions in connection with the war effort such as State Guard maneuvers, all airplane operation and maintenance expenses are borne by members of the CAP. In many instances it has meant thousands of dollars contributed to the government; to many it has been only a few dollars, but dollars that mean more to those giving them than the thousands of others.

The CAP is composed of men and women from all walks of life. The mechanic who has scurried to build up flying time is more likely to be in command of flights and squadrons than the rich man with every advantage. The demands of the government have been met in every instance. Every day men of the CAP risk their lives in coastal patrol operations, and they have been credited with the sinking of a number of submarines.

The Trainer Plane ball is being given to raise funds for two planes which will be used to speed the training of pilots who do not have sufficient air-hours to perform missions urgently needed by the government. This means quick building up of flying hours, made necessary by the constant feeding of qualified pilots into the armed services. More than 75 CAP members here, for example, have gone into the Army and Navy in the past year. Others will go, yet the CAP still must maintain the services expected by the government.

This is your chance to help.

The Old Line

John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America, a CIO organization, resorted to the old line of misleading inference when, in his report to the union's convention at Cincinnati, he criticized the pending national tax bill of 1942. That bill is now before the senate and it will be impossible to define its ultimate form until it has passed that body, with amendments yet to be proposed, agreed to by the house and signed into law by President Roosevelt.

After sharply rapping the bill in its present form on the ground that it bears too heavily on low-income groups, Lewis' report said:

"On the other hand, it will permit wealthy corporations to clear enormous annual profits on their investments before paying one cent in surplus taxes."

As a matter of fact the bill, as reported by the Finance Committee, levies normal and surtax rates upon corporations up to 40 per cent, while amendments yet to be acted upon would increase that rate to 55 per cent.

But it is not in this point that the Lewis attack is most misleading.

It is the reference to "wealthy corporations," which, to the unthinking, creates a picture of individual industrialists reveling in vastly increased incomes while the remainder of the country struggles to pay the war bill.

As a matter of fact corporations of today represent the average man just as truly as do unions represent the working man. For the stocks of most corporations are widely held by average citizens who reap the reward of thrift by, if they are fortunate, gaining a small addition to their income from the dividends earned by the corporations in which they hold stock.

These same dividends add to the amount of income tax their recipients have to pay. Furthermore, the day is fast approaching when individual incomes, as proposed by President Roosevelt, will be limited to $25,000 annually.

It is not the earnings of corporations that matter. It is the incomes of the individuals that tell the story. When these are limited to a net maximum of $25,000, no man need worry about anyone gaining tainted wealth while the nation is at war, with the possible exception of criminal racketeers, and it is the duty of the regular law enforcement agencies to curb these.

To denounce "wealthy corporations," even by inference, in days such as these, is to willfully mislead and attempt to sow seeds of new discord in the nation.

To Prevent Fire

This is Fire Prevention Week. Various spectacular stunts are being staged, daily, before the Atlanta public, all designed to force attention upon the importance of preparedness against the ruthless enemy of fire and to make every citizen conscious of the importance of eliminating fire hazards, before the fires start.

It is always of primary importance that the fire loss of any community be reduced to its lowest possible point. Fire destroys property. A high ratio of fire loss increases the cost of fire insurance to all holders in the area affected. Fire endangers life. Fire is the universal enemy of mankind.

In time of war it is more urgent than ever that fires be prevented.

It requires every material, every human and every spiritual resource of the nation to bring the victory to pass. It is delaying that day of victory whenever we waste material. And fire is the worst, the most absolute waste of all.

Remember the emphasis placed upon fire prevention during this special week and remember it to such good effect that you will become one more of the unofficial army that guards the nation and its people against the ravages of fire.

FIGHTING WORDS

(From The Vidalia Advance.)

If you don't like fighting words, don't read this editorial.

The biggest job facing us today is winning a war—a war which is the greatest national crisis we have ever faced. The job transcends politics, personal feelings and everything else today.

For that reason we expect every man, woman and child in this community to join in the scrap campaign which runs from October 5 to October 24. We expect men of opposing political views to work together like brothers; we expect people from every section of the community pulling shoulder to shoulder to get this job done NOW.

It is your duty to give to this campaign any articles containing metal which are not in use and to make sacrifices of some which you otherwise would not part with. We expect you to give cheerfully and willingly every piece of scrap you can find.

We can win this war if we get fighting mad enough to do it. We have tremendous piles of scrap in this country which will be a deciding factor in the end against countries which do not have this reserve. But it won't do our men any good unless we throw it into the scrap.

Our boys are giving their all in the front lines. No sacrifice we can make will be as great as theirs—but we can help. Don't let your boy down. Contribute every pound of scrap metal you have and can find.

We can! We will! WE MUST!

WASHINGTON PARADE

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS

PURE PIFFLE WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—There is something downright presumptuous about the letter written President Roosevelt the other day by 35 Washington correspondents protesting against the censorship imposed on the chief executive's movements during his recent inspection tour of defense plants.

Complaining that some fundamental issue of freedom of the press is involved, the newspapermen protested both against the suppression of news concerning the trip and because they were not allowed to go along.

The protesting gentlemen of the press professed to see some symptom of "creeping censorship" in the failure of Mr. Roosevelt—or the secret service, whichever may be to blame—to throw the presidential train open to the usual flood of accompanying newspapermen much the same as he does on any political junket. Their reasoning is a little too obscure to carry conviction.

Mr. Roosevelt, traveling as the commander-in-chief in wartime, confined the press representation on his train to the three principal news services, AP, UP and INS, each being allowed one man. Since none of the stories arising from the trip were to be released for publication until he returned, this seemed to be ample coverage for all practical purposes.

As for the gentlemen of the press who were confined to a minimum number of men for two reasons. In the first place, to have thrown the bars open to all comers would have necessitated using more than one train for the tour. This would have been impractical, considering the urgency of concealing the chief executive's movements. The main reason, however, was to avoid any semblance of a political mission on the eve of the forthcoming November elections.

Had he loaded down the train with newspapermen who would be expected to publicize the trip afterward, he might have been subject to this charge.

WHAT G. O. P. WANTED The Republicans were itching to give the presidential trip this kind of a twist from the moment they first heard about it. Nothing would have suited them better. Regardless of whether he had made any political utterance on the trip or not, they were prepared to charge that the restrictions imposed amounted to an influence the voters in behalf of the Democratic ticket next month. In fact, several of them have gone so far as to make the ridiculous charge anyway.

What they were hoping for, of course, was to arouse the country with the charge that Mr. Roosevelt was shirking his presidential duties at a time of national peril. The restrictions imposed amounted to a "creeping censorship," that, of course, is utterly without foundation. We already have a censorship—entirely voluntary—that covers the movements of Mr. Roosevelt as commander-in-chief, General Marshall, the chief of staff, and all military information which might be of value to the enemy.

It is doubtful that this censorship could be relaxed even if Mr. Roosevelt chose. The control of information concerning his movements in time of war rests entirely with the secret service, which is answerable only to congress. It would impose a much heavier burden on the duty of the secret service to protect the person of the President to have his movements revealed on a trip of the kind.

PUBLIC NOT DUMB The argument was made by the protesting correspondents that the censorship could have been modified to permit the release of news on the President's journey after his departure from each city visited. That does not seem to have been the case or two such releases the public would have been able to tell the direction of the presidential train, and any Axis agent or spy would have been able to surmise where he was headed.

The people have lost no confidence in the newspapers because of the suppression of news on the President's tour. Claims to the contrary are merely the ravings of a few hysterical individuals who are unable to appreciate the necessity for that kind of censorship.

What was done by the 35 correspondents signing the protest is not to be taken as an indication of the attitude of the Washington corps of newspapermen as a whole. As a matter of fact, there were some 500 newspapermen eligible to sign the protest. Obviously a great many of them refused.

SIGN ANYTHING Perhaps the best explanation of their action lies in the fact that of the 35 or so signers, three-fourths of them represent newspapers or publications which have been more or less violent in their opposition to the New Deal. It is not going too far to say that most of them would probably sign anything critical of Mr. Roosevelt.

The only surprise of it is that the petition bore such signatures as those of Raymond Clapper, of Scripps-Howard; Ernest K. Lindley, of Newsweek, and Kenneth L. Crawford, of PM—all three well-known writers who usually are more than fair in their treatment of administration news.

It is only fair to say, however, that since the protest was published, Crawford has publicly apologized for his action, explaining that he signed under a misapprehension.

Aside from being over-presumptuous, the newspapermen seem to have taken the matter too seriously, in thinking they have a right to shape presidential policy in circumstances of the kind. Something far more important was at stake than mere newspaper headlines.

Continuing the speech by Archibald MacLeish, first half of which was published here yesterday's column.

"The endeavors of the Nazi propagandists, and those who echo them, to confuse and falsify our understanding of our debt to Britain in this war, have deceived very few among us. We know now how to value and how to judge the whispered rumors and the printed innuendoes which seek to persuade us that the British have done less than their full duty in this war. We know what they have done."

"We know that British war production, until quite recently, was greater than our own, though Britain's population is a third of ours. We know that during the first quarter of this year Britain produced, in proportion to her population, two and a half times as much war munitions as America did, and twice the American weight of combat planes and sent 80 per cent of war production overseas."

A Million Men Overseas "We know that the British army has not been held in the British Isles, as the Nazi propagandists have sought to persuade us, but has been shipped abroad for fighting until the total of British troops serving outside of Britain is now a million men and over. We know that of the British empire casualties of better than 200,000 men, over 70 per cent are men from the United Kingdom. We know that the civilian population of Britain has suffered losses which should stop the mouths of any humane critic. British civilians—men, women and children—killed in air raids alone exceed in number the casualties of the United States Expeditionary Force in the first World War. And one home in five throughout Britain—a total of 2,600,000—has been damaged or destroyed by bombs. Last April—a light month for bombing—a thousand British men and women and children died in air raids.

"Besides these losses, the economic sacrifices and the curtailment of British comforts have perhaps little significance, but they are impressive notwithstanding. British rationing allows 20 cents worth of meat and a quart of milk a week. No gasoline whatever is provided for private use by any British subject. No one in Britain enjoys an income, after tax deduction, exceeding $20,000 a year. Eighty per cent of the boys and 70 per cent of the girls between the ages of 14 and 17 are engaged in war work of some kind."

"These are the facts and the figures of British sacrifice and British participation in the war. Only those who can match them with those of the United States should speak, or so it seems to me, in derogation of the British people."

Who Fight For Freedom "But it is not to answer the Nazi propaganda, which seeks on both sides of the Atlantic to set the British against the Americans and the Americans against the British, that I speak of the battlefield of Britain. The devastated British towns and the long rosters of the British dead need no apology from me or any man. I ask you to remember the battlefield of the first Battle of Britain for very different reasons. It has always been the pride of this nation, as it has been the pride of free people in every age, to honor those who fight for freedom and who die."

"The people of the slave nations delight in detraction and disparagement and cynicism because the detraction of other human beings brings the world down to their slave's level of pettiness and spite. The people of the free countries, because they respect their freedom and themselves, and because they respect therefore the quality of humanity in every man, delight in the praise of noble actions. The first Battle of Britain was a noble action which the people of the United States know how to value. It is their intention that the second Battle of Britain, in

Second Front NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—That matter of the second front is one that should be discussed only by men who know the military facts and can measure the chances, but inasmuch as our communists have tried to stampee our military men we ought to remind ourselves of a few truths.

The first is that Russia is fighting this war for Russia's own life and, only incidentally for ours. True, it is a war of alliance on a one-for-all basis, but there is in the Communist propaganda a note of suggestion that Russia's motives are purely altruistic and this we know to be untrue, because Russia not only stood by and saw France go down and saw Britain stand alone against the Nazis for a terrible year, but, according to the terms of the Russian-German treaty touched off the war, actually helped the Nazis with supplies.

The extent of that help we do not know and it may have been little and a bargain price to pay for the extra time that Russia needed to complete her preparations for an onslaught which may have been foreseen. But the Germans did not start their second World War in a quarter-century until they had assured themselves, of Russia's military neutrality and her commercial co-operation, and they probably would not have started it unless Russia had given that assurance with whatever mental reservations there were.

Russia had no intention to come to the help of the British and, indirectly, of the Chinese and, subsequently, of the United States for altruistic reasons. Russia accepted war only because Russia was suddenly invaded, at which time Winston Churchill immediately made a speech reiterating his old and well-known stand against Communism in Britain, but welcoming the diversion and the aid that Russia might give and promising Britain's co-operation with Russia.

Up To That Date Up to that date, June 22, 1941, the Communists in the States and the one man in the United States congress, who always votes according to the Communist party line—and the only man who ever has done this, Vice Marchand, of New York, Mayor LaGuardia's protégé, were anti-British and thus pro-Nazi.

They said this was a war of British imperialism and their slogan was "The Yanks Aren't Coming." They did everything in their power to impede the efforts of the American people to prepare for a war which, to many Americans, and obviously to the American government, seemed inevitable, and this obstruction probably will be paid for eventually by the loss of American and Russian lives. In France they exerted themselves tirelessly, not to defeat the Nazis but to undermine and defeat France. In view of the fact that they were much more numerous and powerful in France than here, and remembering that they were then fiercely devoted to the success of the Nazi army, it follows that they contributed to the destruction of France and were themselves, in an important degree, responsible for the terribly perilous problems of establishing today that second front which they demand.

If it is impossible, from the military standpoint, to make a second front on the continent, then those Communists who conspired and contrived toward the collapse of France and the expulsion of the British from France deliberately earned an important share of the blame. If Russia must suffer for the lack of that second front, Earl Browder and all the other American Communists and the Communists of France share the guilt.

Russia, Too Stood By It is suggested that the British have great forces standing by to repel invasion. The strength of those forces we do not know, but we have learned, to our amazement and to Hitler's surprise, too, that Russia had even greater and better forces standing by all during the time while the British expeditionary forces were fighting the Germans and Italians in the Near East and taking terrible beatings in the Balkans and on Crete, which their navy was fighting alone, except some informal assistance from the Navy of the United States, and while the British people were being slaughtered and their cities blasted by the Nazis whom the Communists in the United States were cheering and helping.

The American Communist is the worst enemy of understanding and co-operation between the United States and Russia because he is so detestably tricky and so willing to sacrifice American lives and interests. Russia may have needed that borrowed time while the British stood against the Nazis while only the Greeks to help them on a second front. The United States needed that borrowed time, too, and used it as well as could be. But while Britain stood alone and the United States began to prepare the Communists in this country pulled strikes in the war industries and, along with those other traitors of the Nazi Bund, whooped it up for appeasement and military triumph of the Nazis.

So any judgment on any second front must ignore the obligations of the American Communists who would have had us helpless now if they could have had their way.

which they too will play their part, shall be a noble action also—an action of which they and all who learn of it, in this time, or in any other time, may well be proud."

Twenty-Five Years Ago Today From the news columns of Monday, October 8, 1918:

"Chicago, October 7.—The Chicago American League baseball machine trundled halfway to victory in the World's Series clash with the New York Nationals today, when the White Sox defeated the Giants, 7 to 2, in the second game of the titular series."

He gets discouraged very easily."

ONE WORD MORE

By RALPH MCGILL

A BETTER DAY MACON, Ga., Oct. 7.—I respectfully submit that the acceptance speech made here today by Ellis Arnall, Governor-elect, before the state convention, was the most statesmanlike speech made in Georgia since the days of the giants—Hill, Toombs and Stephens.

There was no fraud in it. No pretense, no false note. A young man, claiming no great capabilities, asked Georgia to help him do what the people want done, to restore good, decent government to the people, the best people I know, the people of Georgia.

He said that he realized he merely was the instrumentality of the wishes of the people. He said that he knew the people were not voting so much for Ellis Arnall as they were voting for good government.

He announced fearlessly that his first duty was to principle and his second loyalty to his friends. He asked them not to embarrass him with patronage requests. They would not, he said, be granted on the basis of friendship.

He spoke out to businessmen, saying they need not hire lobbyists or emissaries to see the Governor.

He declared he would veto any legislation aimed at a shakedown of any legitimate business.

He spoke strongly, fearlessly. His talk was a challenge to all Georgians. The people want decency in government. They want to be proud of their state and its officials.

Ellis Arnall will go into office with the state's treasury empty, with state revenues reduced and costs increased by the recent merited increases to teachers and the tremendous number added to the pension rolls.

He will need the help of the people. He ought to have it. If you heard that speech I think you will give it. It was not oratory. But it was sincerity and honesty pledging decency and respect and honesty.

I repeat, that not since the days of the giants of Georgia has there been a finer statement by a public official.

IN THE AIR One could feel it in the air that all Georgia feels better. The delegates reflected it. The atmosphere of the convention radiated it.

The state is proud of itself and the job it has done. People lift their heads again.

There is no more fear. There were no harking thugs about this convention. There were no strong arm guards.

The people came, eager and proud. They saw a young Georgian and his charming wife presented to the convention—a young man and a young woman and their son, the next Governor and his family—and they stood and cheered them. Their hearts went out to them. There is nothing false about them. They are like the rest of us, ambitious, loyal to the state, proud of the honor that is theirs, wanting to do the right and proper thing.

The whole convention warmed to them. It really did not seem like a political convention. It was just a proud, happy day when the people came to honor the young man they chose to lead them through the next four years.

Georgia deserves dignity and decency. Georgia will get it from this young man, who, without arrogance or insolence, pledged his dead level best to the job.

THE FUTURE On the way to the convention hall I met Miss Evelyn Hanna, the charming novelist from Thomaston. She was excited, and proud, attending her first convention as a delegate.

During the campaign she worked in her county, making a speech at the time of Ellis Arnall's appearance at Thomaston.

I mention this because what she did was symbolic of what happened in Georgia during this recent campaign. People who had never before considered an active interest in politics got into the campaign. It suddenly became clear to many, many people that our government, the best government in the world, despite its inefficiency, is based on politics. It survives or dies according to the interest people take in their government.

We saw students and their mothers and fathers take an active part in their government. I think they found it interesting and somehow fascinating.

It is highly important that they continue that interest. If they do Georgia will continue to have better and better government, more and more pride in their state, more and more part in its future.

That is what democracy really means, the participation of the people in government. The weaknesses of a democracy are produced by the failure of a people to participate in their government. It is the failure of a few men who become arrogant and who develop a lust for more and more power.

Today was a good day. The state does seem cleaner, brighter and finer.

Let us all pledge with this sincere young Governor that we, too, will do our dead level best to work for Georgia and to serve her honestly and decently.

Defeat Is Certain If We Gauge The Enemy's Strength by Our Hopes

By ROBERT QUILLEN

When a well-prepared enemy struck us without warning, and our own stupid carelessness brought us a major defeat, we could save our pride by saying: "We were not prepared. Anybody might be defeated by a knife in the back."

When the Marines on Wake were at last overcome by a vastly superior enemy force, their defeat seemed like a victory. We felt pride, rather than shame, for our men outfought and outsmarted the Japs and lost only because their weapons were so few.

But when we lose and our Allies lose because of wishful-thinking leadership, we can only weep in helpless shame and wrath. Before the war began, there was some excuse for the folly of underestimating the Japs. To continue that folly after the first battle was the arrogance of imbecility.

Hong Kong was lost by underestimating the Japs. Singapore was lost by underestimating the Japs. Two of England's most powerful ships were lost by underestimating the Japs.

As free people learned to expect that sickening refrain, "Too late and too little," so they learned to expect the alibi: "We didn't think the enemy could do it." It should have read: "We didn't think, period."

The Japs were not the only ones underestimated. British leaders in North Africa underestimated Rommel, and suffered a defeat that came close to being final.

And when the gallant Canadians—the pick of the army, trained to perfection—swarmed on the beach at Dieppe, to be met by a murderous crossfire that mowed them down like ripe wheat, watching reporters wrote in their notebooks: "It was immediately apparent that the enemy had more artillery than we had expected." Once more the enemy had been underestimated.

How many must die, and how much more must we lose before our leaders learn not to invite disaster by underestimating the enemy?

OFF THE RECORD—By Ed Reed

Dudley Glass

If this daily encyclopedia of mis-information has appeared to be more erudite in recent months, more addicted to polysyllabic words (that's one of them) more, as you might say, pedantic, it is because I have acquired the dictionary habit or had it thrust upon me. Almost in my lap.

In my early childhood, just after the high chair period, a Webster's unabridged dictionary and a Montgomery Ward catalogue served as cushions to raise me so I could see into my oatmeal bowl. As time marched on the catalogue was removed and I came into closer juxtaposition (there's another good one) with the dictionary.

But early influences are strong. To this day I can remember almost everything in the catalogue from blacksmith's supplies to ladies' dress forms, but the dictionary failed to register. Possibly it was approached from the wrong direction, but that applies also to the Montgomery Ward tome.

Over on Marietta street, in the offices of the late lamented Georgian, the only reference books available to the staff were three volumes of the U. S. Agricultural Department's reports for 1913-14, 15 and a "mug book" containing pictures and biographical sketches of such prominent Georgians as had been persuaded to pay a hundred bucks for inclusion among other celebrities. That was kept in a convenient spot in case somebody of great prominence died or was elected to high office, when it would provide a readymade history of his career. But it was of little practical use. The citizens immortalized in this volume never died or rose to fame. Sometimes they became top knockers in a lodge, but that's hardly worth a biography from birth to last night.

Inaccessible

The Georgian possessed a big dictionary but it was on the top floor, in the composing room's proof room which rendered it difficult of access. It was rarely consulted, which may account for the simple and lucid style of Georgian writers. Most of them, being university men, couldn't spell any word more intricate than "sunset," with some hesitation over whether it was one word or two. But spelling never mattered. The linotype operator fixed that. As for the meaning of a word or the choice of a word better qualified to convey the thought, who wanted to climb to the top floor and brave the scorn and contumely of the proof readers—staunch union men all. So we used the first word that seemed to convey the general idea and the editor received few notes of protest.

But over here on The Constitution I am acquiring a new knowledge of words, their spelling and their meaning. Our big dictionary is not serving as a cushion—which had proved the wrong approach. It is a few inches from my left ear, mounted on a four-legged iron stand which has inflicted bruises on my legs from ankle to knee.

It is not that I consult the dictionary on my own account—though I'll admit if I'd started the habit in early youth I might now be a college professor—but who wants to be? But the other members of the staff consult it frequently, just under my left ear. I suggest that if they'd just ask me it would save time and trouble. They say they had tried that and been rebuked severely for writing a word that was not only spelled wrong but didn't make sense.

By listening as they spell and pronounce words aloud and discuss to themselves the various meanings, I am gaining a postgraduate course in the English language. I trust you have noted its influence upon my daily contributions to the sum total of human ignorance.

Keys-To What?

It's hard to estimate how much valuable metal the drive for old keys will bring or how many tanks they'll build, but surrendering useless keys will undoubtedly take several thousand tons of pressure off men's pants pockets.

A search of our domicile revealed a pound or so of keys, still perfectly efficient—if anybody could remember what locks they might fit. They have been added to the war effort.

Keys seem to be one of the most treasured of personal effects. Only a few days ago a lathered bum who touched me for a quarter—for old times' sake, though I couldn't recall having met him before—pulled from his pants pocket the slack of a steel chain bearing more keys than would equip a warden at a federal pen.

As he had told me he was residing in a 20-cent flop house, when he could raise 20 cents, and all his possessions were on his person, I inquired about his keys, where he had acquired them and why he retained them.

"Oh, they just came to me," he said. "Maybe I keep 'em in hopes I'll find something one of them will fit, some day. But mainly, I think, because I like to run my hand down into my pocket and feel something that will clink."

"Now you suggest it, I think I'll drop 'em in one of them boxes. But I'll miss 'em. Now, if I just had two quarters to clink in that pocket—"

"I have done my bit," I returned. "But I'm willing to do more. The quarter you have and this beautiful new one-cent piece will clink just as musically as a couple of 10-dollar goldpieces."

"Says you," he came back. "But the two of 'em won't buy a half-pint."

Another one of those rookie stories. Drafted from up the country was put into uniform. Fellow privates in his tent gave him a bit of advice:

"At breakfast tomorrow morning they'll serve you pork and beans. Don't touch 'em. If you show you don't like 'em they'll bring you orange juice, half a grapefruit and a big dish of ham and eggs."

"I kinder like pork and beans," he told his home folks. "But I'm open to advice. So I passed 'em up three mornin's in a row—and I ain't seen no ham and eggs yet. Not to mention orange juice."

AN ERA OF CHANGE.

Dr. Willis A. Sutton, superintendent of schools in Atlanta for the past 20 odd years, made a whole of a talk to the Atlanta Baptist preachers last Monday morning. He spoke on "Some Implications for Education and Religion in an Era of Change."

He led off with the suggestion that what we are passing through in this world at this hour is vastly more than war—that it is, in its final and full effect, a world revolution. This was not the first time we have heard that, but Dr. Sutton faced the implications of that assertion in about the frankest manner of any man I have heard speak since the outbreak of the World War II.

"This world revolution is manifesting itself in the economic realm," he said, "and in this sphere of life we may see a shift from capitalism to what we may call, for lack of a better term, management. This idea was seized by John J. Eagan 20 years ago when he turned his pipe business in Birmingham over to the stockholders and employees, and if you will go to that concern today you will find two men in the head office, each drawing the same salary, and jointly managing that highly successful business enterprise. One of these men represents the stockholders, the other represents the workers."

"And then we see this world revolution manifesting itself in the social realm, as illustrated in the recent visit to the United States of Mr. Davies, superintendent of public education in London. He was over here to study our public school system and carry back to that old nation and government our experience in their effort to provide the advantages of free public schools to all the children of England. That is just one of the many far-reaching social changes taking place in the world today—changes that would not be possible, perhaps, but for this world revolution. I shouldn't be surprised if the greatest lesson we learn from this war may turn out to be the ability to learn how to adjust ourselves to change. I think we are now prepared to say that President Harding missed the bus when he said we should return to normalcy. It all depends upon what you mean by normalcy.

"Another change which I hope this world revolution will bring will be to teach the world, especially our own nation, that we have to go back to work. Necessity sometimes drives people where love cannot win them. Maybe war and starvation may drive us back to the blessing of work."

"And the greatest implication that I see in this world revolution for education and religion is the possibility that it may be used of God in bringing men to a deeper faith in Him. Germany believes in efficiency. Japan believes in fatalism. It will take faith in God, nothing less, to whip these nations. Unbowed as they are in these faiths in efficiency and fatalism."

Dr. Sutton closed his address with emphasis upon the individual as the essential factor in it all—transformed individuals, by the grace of Jesus Christ. "Jesus never met an unimportant person," he said. Whether you altogether agree with him, he does make you think, eh?

800,000 Lbs. of Scrap

Collected by 11-Year-Old

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 7.—(AP)—Eleven-year-old Warren Breaux, Gueydan, La., sixth grader who gathered 800,000 pounds of scrap, "just ran a notice in the paper" to start on his record collection, he told several thousand New Orleans school children.

The notice, he explained, asked all the farmers and children in his parish to bring their scrap to him. "They did," he said, and I told the dealers when I got a lot, and they came and got it. And the farmers and children bought bonds and stamps with the money. And that's all there was to it."

GOOD MOTTO.

LEESBURG, Va., Oct. 7.—(AP)—As T. G. Futch donated his massive strongbox to the scrap drive he coined a phrase: "Invest your money in war bonds and you won't need a safe."

CD Schedules Fire Hazard Check Tonight

A thorough checkup on fire hazards in Atlanta will be made tonight by the Office of Civilian Defense.

Air raid wardens in each precinct of the Atlanta metropolitan area—covering five counties—will visit each home. They will look in attics, basements and garages for debris and inflammable material that might help start a fire.

Homes okayed by the warden for participation in fire prevention rules will be qualified for the new "V" window sticker soon to be awarded, according to George M. Phillips, OCD director.

These stickers also will show the homes have complied with air raid precautions, are buying War Savings bonds regularly, co-operating in the scrap campaign, food conservation and other civilian drives to help in the war effort.

The first public workout of the fire department's new rescue jacket yesterday in which Miss Dorothy Arnall, "Miss Fire Prevention," was lowered from the fifth floor of the First National Bank building, went off without a hitch.

Firemen went through the rescue in slow motion so hundreds of noon hour workers who packed the sidewalks could follow each motion. The actual rescue could have been effected during an emergency within two minutes, Fire Chief C. C. Styron said.

The jacket, designed by Chief Styron soon after he took office in 1939, is a baglike affair, suspended by three cables. It is large enough to support three men and is equipped with straps to bring down injured victims.

Another feature of the Fire Prevention Week observance, sponsored by the Junior Chamber of Commerce, will be a demonstration of the fire department's new aerial at noon today in front of Fire Station No. 8, on Carnegie Way.

A platform has been erected at Five Points for a demonstration on how to put out incendiary bombs at noon tomorrow. Auxiliary firemen will aid members of the city fire department in staging the show with a real incendiary.

Camp Fire Girls

To Display Rescue
Camp Fire Girls of the Peachtree Christian church will demonstrate how they would rescue themselves from a fire-swept building at a show at 3:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon at the church.

The demonstration, presented in connection with Fire Prevention Week, will feature escapes from second-story windows, and higher, for five schools—Washington Seminary, Spring Street, Morning-side, Clark Howell and Home Park.

"Miss Fire Prevention"—Dorothy Arnall—and Creighton Simpson, chairman of the Junior Chamber of Commerce's city-wide program on fire prevention, will be special guests at the demonstration.

Chief C. C. Styron, of the fire department, will have experts in this line to oversee the demonstration and also to show how artificial respiration is given.

When the first demonstration of this type was held two years ago, seven-year-olds scaled down the walls without fear. One descent was made by a child who had been crippled in a fire.

"COMMANDOS" SCRAPOUT.
CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Oct. 7.—(AP)—Chattanooga children, operating as "junior commandos," collected 166,057 pounds of scrap metal from September 9 to October 3, officials announced today.

VICTORY BELL.
COLUMBUS, Ind., Oct. 7.—(AP)—An 800-pound city bell, which was rung so vigorously in 1918 to celebrate the end of World War I that it cracked, was turned in for the World War II scrap pile.

HALF-YEAR TEA SUPPLY.
NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—(AP)—Benjamin Wood, managing director of the tea bureau, said today tea on hand in the United States would meet present restricted demand for six to seven months.

THREE TIMES STRAIGHT!

Are Bond's balmy? That was 1937.

Just plain wacky? That was 1941.

Completely cuckoo? That's what the puzzled head-scratchers are mumbling now, in 1942.

Your pocketbook remembers '37. Hoist those prices, boys—it's a boom. And up they go, on everything from ships to sealing wax. But—Bond sits tight! "Let's make more friends and we won't need higher prices." What happens? More men wear Bond clothes than any other clothes in America. Balmy, eh?

Comes 1941—and more hoopla. Defense plants going great guns. Full dinner pails. So prices take another ride—and this time plenty! Again—Bond sits tight. "Let's take it easy—greater volume can bridge the gap." It can, and does—for still more men wear Bond clothes than any other clothes in America. Just plain wacky, eh?

And now—1942. War! The mad rush to buy. Zowie!—look at price tags now! Remember what they were yesterday? Well today, some are up 45%. Sorry, this time Bond's can't sit so tight. Woolens have really hit high "C". Trimmings, too. And labor gets lots more. So Bond prices, with a faint flutter, finally give in. Yes, they flutter up all of 2%. And square-deal-loving Americans eat it up.

Here it is, in plain dollars and cents—Bond prices for one trouser suits ever since we've been in business, compared with Bond prices for those same suits today!

Look! During all these years, Bond Streeter Suits were $22.50. Today, they're only $22.95!

Look! $27 and Bond Rochester Craft Suits were ever a famous team. Today, the change is only to $28!

Look! Bond Park Lane Suits always satisfied champagne tastes at the club-soda price of only $31.50. Today, $32 does the same grand job—only 50 cents more!

Look! Bond's exclusive Executive Group Suits, with their lavish use of Rochester needlework, were always $36 and $40.50. Today, these luxury clothes are yours for no more than $36.50 and $40.75!

And no finagling with quality, if you please. We've never tolerated such monkey business—and never will! Dollar for dollar, cloth for cloth, stitch for stitch, the intrinsic value of every Bond suit stands firm as a General Grant Tank—today, tomorrow, as long as we're in business!

If playing the game that way is completely cuckoo, looks like we're elected. Maybe it would have been easier to boost prices while we could—and the heck with all those loyal friends who have made us America's No. 1 clothier.

What do you think?

Text of Platform Adopted at the State Democratic Convention

Arnall Policies Announced For Next 4 Years

Results of September 9 Primary Ratified in Macon.

MACON, Ga., Oct. 7.—Policies of state government in Georgia for the next four years were announced and adopted today at the state convention. The platform was written by a committee, headed by Ralph McGill, editor of The Atlanta Constitution.

Here is the text in full: Democrats of Georgia are assembled here today, in this splendid and historic county and city, to ratify the results of the primary of September, and to give to the people a statement of principles and position.

We are met in time of war. It is a time of world war. In all Europe, in Asia, on the islands of the seven seas, and on most of the continents and seas of the world, the war goes on.

The war has served to emphasize again that the fundamental principles of the Democratic party are the principles for which this nation and its allies fight, namely: That we must ever remain a government of laws, and not a government of men or of one man exercising dictatorial powers; That all laws must bear equally on all the people;

That we must have a union of indestructible states within which is maintained local self-government.

The war has shown us anew that all people have an obligation to government, and that all citizens of this state and the nation are entitled to its protection and the impartial rights provided by the constitution of the state of Georgia and the United States. That constitution provides for all its citizens these obligations, these rights, these privileges. They are guaranteed alike to all, regardless of religion or race. The poor, the weak and the underprivileged always should receive the special care of the government.

The constitution of the state and of the nation represents the desire and thought of the people whereby they have established government under which they are to live and do business. Public officials are elected by the people to administer those laws. This convention does urge, in the name of the people, that the nominees of the Democratic party keep ever in mind their solemn duty to the laws of the people and the rights of the people.

The Democratic party is the party of the people. It was founded by Jefferson. It must so remain if it is to have reason for existence and if it is to continue to enjoy the confidence of the people. It must restrain and punish the corrupt, and practice honesty, economy and efficiency in government.

Support of the War.

The greatest duty of any citizen and any party in this state and nation today is to devote every necessary effort to the winning of the war.

God helping us, we must win to preserve for this nation and its people their government, their liberties and rights which they have established for themselves under their government.

We join with the other states in holding up the hand of our commander-in-chief, in supporting his war policy and his whole program for winning the war.

Twice within 25 years destiny has given to the Democratic party the terrible and yet inspiring task of leading the world in a fight for liberty and freedom. The great and glorious name of Woodrow Wilson, disciple of peace and justice, has been given its proper place high in history and in the hearts of men. He showed the world a way to lasting peace and justice.

Selfishness and greed destroyed

GEORGIA DEMOCRATS CONVENE—The camera caught this scene yesterday as party members met in the city auditorium at Macon for the Democratic State Convention. Over the platform is a picture of Ellis Arnall, nominee for Governor of Georgia. At the right him and his works and set our feet, on the road to another war; one which now demands a sacrifice greater than any war in history and which bids fair to take a great toll in life and in human effort. Now, Democrats must put away all rancor and join hands for the future.

We pledge ourselves to support another great Democrat, Franklin D. Roosevelt, who holds the confidence of the people of the free nations; who is the hope of the conquered nations and enslaved peoples; who has shown by his works that he is a friend of the people and of justice. We believe in his ability to bring the war to a successful conclusion and to work out a peace which will be lasting and just. To him the Democrats of Georgia pledge their every aid in winning the war.

Upon him and us we ask the peace and blessing of God, recognizing that without His mercy and His blessing man can do but little.

State Affairs.

The people of Georgia have spoken and today we meet to ratify what they have done with their ballots. It was in 1801, 141 years ago, that the first commencement was held at Franklin College, of the University of Georgia. Since that time the people of the state have revered it and loved it, given to it their sons and daughters, given to it devotion and money. The people have indicated that they wish their University System to be free from political domination.

This convention urges its nominee for Governor and the nominees for the general assembly to make their first duty, on assuming office, the taking of necessary steps to restore the University System to a fully accredited standing so that the boys and girls of Georgia may have a higher educational system which meets the standards set by other universities in the other 47 states.

The constitution of Georgia always has, and properly has, required separate schools for the white and colored children of the state. None would change this provision.

We urge upon school officials that they give to all the schools their earnest efforts to the end that more children be given the benefits of education, so that Georgia may have more of her young citizens trained for professions, for trade and commerce, and Georgia made more prosperous thereby.

This convention urges the general assembly to enact statutes whereby the Governor will be removed from membership on the Board of Regents; whereby the Governor's budgetary control will be so restricted that never again may the Governor use a "red pencil" to threaten educators and teachers, and whereby a newly created Board of Regents may perform its duties free from political domination and control.

We urge that the legislature present to the people a constitutional amendment whereby the State Board of Education and the Board of Regents shall be entirely removed from the Governor's influence and allowed to function for the proper interests of our children and our state.

We must extend proper educational advantages to every boy and girl through these provisions and through a sound fiscal system.

We should pay our teachers on a parity with general state employees, prepare a proper retirement system, and obtain for them as much federal aid as possible. Our schools are our citadels of democracy and we must give to them our guidance and our assistance so that they may be free to teach freedom and justice.

Pardons.

The people, through their county grand juries and through their ballots, have spoken on the subject of pardons. Mercy must be shown when it is demonstrated that justice has erred, where retribution, redemption and restoration have been complete. But the system must be revamped so that the people will know there is no odor of payment for pardon or any semblance of a "pardon racket" whereby justice and mercy are prostituted for political and pecuniary gain.

We urge the creation of a full-time, non-political, specialized board which will take upon itself the problems of pardon and parole, leaving to the Governor only the right to act in cases involving capital punishment.

Budget Control.

This is, as we have said, the party of the people. We recommend that the right to appropriate money, paid to the government by the taxpayers of the state, be given back to the elected representatives of the people, the general assembly of Georgia.

We as strongly recommend that the next general assembly not merely restore to itself the power to appropriate money, but also remove from the statute books the law whereby a governor may remove from office the comptroller general and the state treasurer. The people elect these officials and the people should remove them.

We urge that the next general assembly take from the power of the Governor the right wilfully to strike from the budget the names of efficient state employees.

We likewise urge the creation of a budget commission consisting of the Governor as director, the president of the senate and the speaker of the house, with the state auditor as financial advisor and the attorney general as legal advisor.

We commend the proposal that the state auditor be elected by the general assembly.

We urge that the people be kept advised of the provisions of the budget.

The Highway Board.

We urge the nominee of this party for the office of governor and the legislature to set up a more representative highway board composed of businessmen who enjoy the confidence of the people; who will not play politics with roads, but who will co-operate with county and municipal officials, a board which will serve local needs. In time of war even closer co-operation in highway affairs with the federal government will be necessary.

State Patrol.

We recommend that the State Patrol be reorganized so that it will again save the lives of those who travel our highways by attending to its prescribed duties.

placed at the head of it, and that it once again be allowed to resume its duty. It should never be allowed to become dominated by the Governor. It should be one of the prides of the people of the state.

Labor.

Labor in Georgia is composed of patriotic men and women. Georgia has been free from industrial unrest because labor has pledged itself not to slow down or impede production during the war emergency. Georgia desires harmonious relations between capital and labor.

We believe in the fundamental rights of capital and labor.

The full rights of labor must be protected and will be protected by the Democratic party. We congratulate labor on its assumption of new responsibilities in the war effort and urge that its leaders and its members continue to help us build a greater industrial Georgia in which industry and agriculture will be balanced and profitable, to the benefit of the state and its people.

Agriculture.

We urge that our general assembly give careful consideration to the lot of the farmer. As this young nation has progressed with giant strides industrially, the farmer has been caught and squeezed in the vice of national tariffs and freight rates.

The farmers of Georgia have contributed a great service to the nation by increasing production. They now find their farms stripped of farm labor and many of their crops have not been fully harvested. Shortages are feared in 1943.

We call upon the general assembly and upon our representatives in the congress of the United States, to take cognizance of the fact that the farmer must have more consideration; that we will face serious food shortages at home and in our armed forces if he is not given assistance.

Georgia remains an agricultural state and we will be seriously harmed if we do not all work with our commissioner of agriculture and with the national administration in obtaining all possible aid for the farmers of the state.

Wildlife Department.

We strongly urge that those most interested in the protection of fish and game, be allowed to administer that control. We recommend the setting up of a Wildlife Commission composed of farmers, hunters and fishermen who will conserve our fish and game and develop those resources. It is time that Georgia take this progressive step which has enabled other states to make wildlife conservation an attraction which brings people to the state, produces revenue for its own administration and still protects and increases game and fish. We must obtain for Georgia the federal funds available to assist in this conservation.

State Operation.

At a time when the expenses of war are proving a heavy burden on the people of the state; at a time when that burden may become heavier, we must operate our state government on a sound and economic basis without adding extra tax burdens to those who are already heavily weighted down with unprecedentedly high taxes. To that end we must protect the already existing sources of revenue.

We must see that our old people are taken care of; that they are paid to the limit of our financial ability and that all eligible are placed on the rolls. It is obvious that Georgia must obtain every cent of federal funds, benefits and war projects rightfully hers. To that end we must reiterate again our pledge of sincere and honest co-operation with the federal government and its agencies.

With God's Help.

Finally, we again call upon all the party's nominees to realize again that they are nominated by the people; that they are pledged to support the constitution of the state and to work for the best interests of the people.

We again reverently bow our heads before Almighty God and ask His blessing and His mercy on us as we go forward to serve our state and nation in this hour of crisis.

report on Russia, and on the whole military situation. Marshal Fedor von Bock and General Ritter von Leeb are certainly not cowards in any other conceivable sense.

Stalin's ultimatum combined with his reiteration of strength can only mean one thing. It can only mean that he considers returning to the original Russian conception of fighting the Russian war alone—and making the Russian peace alone. He is saying in effect: If the Anglo-Americans do not come up to scratch and really fight "the Fascist gangsters" then Russia will look out for herself.

In considering what obligations the Anglo-American may have given Russia it is well to consider what obligations Russia took in return. Russia took two: To stay in the war and not make a separate peace, and to abandon any program for the Communist revolution in Europe.

If Russia has to fight for all major military purposes alone, both of these reciprocal obligations may fall into the wastebasket.

The Anglo-American world has, up to now, neither made a major military offensive nor a major political offensive. The political offensive has been the timid and equivocal Atlantic Charter, which was stillborn.

Nevertheless, the Russians have scrupulously fulfilled their political obligations, as well as fighting a war of unexampled and even reckless heroism. Everywhere in the world Moscow has laid down a line for the Communist party to support the war effort to the full.

Everywhere the Communist party has been against strikes and against any slowdown of working effort. In India, the Communist party, which was previously supporting Gandhi, has stood with the British against the sabotage activities of Gandhi—while American "liberals" have been giving him every possible aid and comfort.

But the Russians have not forgotten Munich; it has not passed unobserved by them that influential persons in this country controlling a powerful press still apparently consider Russia as enemy number one. Although I am absolutely convinced that no political considerations whatsoever but purely military questions about the attention of the Anglo-American commands, Russia may not be so sure. The Russians know that armies are not in the long run the instruments of political policies.

Powerful Card.

The record shows that Stalin abandoned the idea of the Communist revolution as an instrument of war policy and probably willingly. A Communist revolution in Europe might upset Stalin's attempts to consolidate the revolution in Russia along more conservative lines. But if Stalin believes that Russia must fight alone, then he has a powerful card to play.

For the German European masses are Socialist. Dr. Goebbels had to precede Hitler with an extreme left wing speech to which far too little attention was paid here.

And if tomorrow Stalin should suddenly raise the banner, "workmen, soldiers and peasants of Europe unite for the all-European Union of Socialist and Soviet Republics against the Fascist gangsters and their Anglo-American stooges," he would have something.

Revolutionary War. And the German army is not anti-Communist. The German army is disinterested politically.

And the Russians have never been so politically unastute as to announce as we have done in the Atlantic Charter, the unilateral disarmament of Germany.

The Russians know that this war is a revolutionary war. They know that the German army and the Nazi leadership are not necessarily the same thing. They judge armies by what they are fighting for.

There is more than one way to bring down Hitler.

Text of Arnall's Acceptance Speech At Macon

MACON, Ga., Oct. 7.—The policies he enunciated during his campaign for governor were reiterated as the policies he will fight for during his four-year administration of Georgia's government, when Ellis Arnall today accepted the nomination of the Democratic party at the state convention.

The full text of Arnall's speech of acceptance was:

Ever since I can remember it has been my ambition to serve my native state as its chief executive. Today, I am humble and yet proud of the fact that the Democratic party of Georgia, the great dominant political organization in this state, has by an overwhelming vote of the individuals who comprise the party, seen fit to nominate me as its candidate for the first four-year term Governorship.

Today, I am humble because I know that the people of this state are looking to me and my administration to inaugurate a new day for Georgia. A day of understanding, a day of progress, a day of reformation, a day of freedom and development for our people. I believe the people of Georgia are tired of peanut politics and of factionalism. They are tired of prejudice between the country and city counties. They are tired of the spoils system in public life. They are tired of disreputable state government. The people of Georgia by their vote have expressed confidence in me and my desire to turn the government back to the people. This, I will forthrightly do with the help of a patriotic, co-operative general assembly.

The recent campaign is now history. It was hard fought. At times it grew bitter. But I truthfully say today that I have no rancor or hatred in my heart for any Georgian, irrespective of his political affiliation or of his attitude in the recent campaign. I want to be the Governor of all the people in this state and, God willing, that I shall do.

Youth Movement

My nomination as Governor was largely brought about by the young people of this state who were fighting for educational opportunities and for the restoration of our great University System. To the members of the Student Political League who worked with such energy and determination, I shall ever be grateful. The people of Georgia shall ever be grateful. Here we saw a successful youth movement that moved down obstacles and barriers which stood in the way of Georgia's future advancement and her educational progress.

I am grateful to the women of Georgia who expressed their interest in decent, honorable and Democratic government. They were determined that a new day should dawn in Georgia. I am determined that they shall not suffer disappointment.

The committee for the restoration of education in Georgia did yeoman service in the crusade that was destined to meet with success because it represented the desires and wishes of the people themselves, and not of any little group of politicians. It just happened that Ellis Arnall was the instrumentality through which the people were to achieve the victory. A victory which rightfully belongs to them.

I am grateful for the activity of the Georgia Wildlife Federation which represents that great group of farmers, landowners, hunters and fishermen, who wanted to see Georgia's natural resources, her game and fish developed, preserved and protected. Georgia is grateful to this group who helped make possible the victory for constitutional and representative government.

Free Press

I would not speak the truth to-day did I not say that the newspapers of Georgia were on trial in the campaign that has closed. I am glad that we still have a free and unshackled press in this state. Never during my administration will I undertake to impede or hamstring or threaten the free press of Georgia. Rather, I will ever endeavor to make available to representatives of the press our acts and doings in state government so that the people may constantly stay in touch with their government and better know how the government functions and the manner in which governmental affairs are being administered.

The people of Georgia, and I as the nominee of my party, owe a lasting debt of gratitude to the press for printing the truth and for speaking out on public issues. The cause of right and decency has no stronger champion than the newspapers of Georgia. I am proud to be privileged to commend them.

I am grateful to the church people, to the members of the service clubs of Georgia and civic organizations. I am grateful to the unknown thousands who fought the battle for a principle. To all these people goes my heartfelt appreciation.

I am grateful to all the groups of our citizens who by concerted effort made possible the winning of the fight.

During my four years as your Governor I will undertake, with the help of your representatives and senators, to inaugurate a program which will bring about the efficient, honest and democratic administration of public affairs.

We will endeavor to restore Georgia's rightful reputation at home and abroad so that our sister states may know that Georgia's government is decent, dignified, honest and progressive. Under my administration, it will be our ever-increasing ambition to truly make Georgia again the Empire State of the South.

the South to the end that she may reflect the brilliant luster and glory which properly belong to her in the galaxy of states.

It will be our purpose to remove the Governor from state boards, to bring about the restoration of the accredited rating to our school and University System. I pledge to the people of Georgia and to the members of this convention that at no time will I, as Governor, undertake to implant my will and my wishes upon the State Board of Regents. The lesson has been well taught in Georgia, that education can never be successfully made the pawn of demagogues, politicians and dictators.

Interest in Education

I long see the day come when every deserving boy and girl in this state may have the benefit of a college education. It is our duty as parents to improve the status of our children so that they may be better men and women than we or else civilization goes backward. One of the revelations of the campaign to me was the fact that as I went up and down Georgia I found that the men and women who were most interested in education for their children and grandchildren were those who had been deprived of the benefit of an education themselves.

As Governor I pledge to this convention and to the people that our administration will remove the stigma of the pardon racket for all time from Georgia. It will be our purpose to restore to the general assembly the right to control the hard-earned tax money of the people of this state.

We will take away from the Governor the right to remove from office the comptroller general and the state treasurer. We shall insist that the state auditor be elected by the legislature rather than serve as the appointee of the Governor.

Under our administration we will have a sound budget commission which will be representative of the people rather than of one man. We will take away from the Governor the right to strike from the budget efficient state employees and limit the budgetary power of the Governor to control of expenditures rather than authorization to dominate and threaten each individual state employee.

Farm Plight

As your new Governor I will interest myself in and ask my administration to seriously consider the plight of the farmers of Georgia. Civilization began with the plow and will end when the last furrow is turned.

While we are proud of our industry, still agriculture is the

It will be done. Tyranny and dictatorship throughout the world must be destroyed.

I am greatly interested in veterans affairs in Georgia. After all is said and done, the people of this state owe to the veterans of other wars and to the soldiers who are fighting this war their lasting thanks and appreciation. I sometimes wonder if any of us are making any real sacrifice or doing much toward winning the war who do not face the realities of fear, the realities of death on one of our 32 far-flung battlefronts or on the seas fraught with unprecedented danger. It is asking little enough of our people to plead for their cooperation in industry, agriculture and government to the end that we back up the fighting forces of our nation and uphold our national leadership.

Ours is a great heritage. Let us remember that as bad as the critics have tried to lead us believe our national government is, it is the finest government in the world today! At all cost, we must keep it so.

I am candidate for no other office. My sole political ambition is to do a good job as Governor during the next four years.

I call upon the Democrats of Georgia and especially upon my own strong friends not to undertake to embarrass me about patronage and state appointments.

As your wartime governor, I pledge that the first consideration of your new state administration will be to render all possible service and co-operation to our Commander-in-Chief Franklin D. Roosevelt in the winning of this war. This is no time to tolerate internal bickering, strife or friction. We must have national unity; we must have political unity; we must have national loyalty and determination to win this war. It must be done.

We must have national unity; we must have political unity; we must have national loyalty and determination to win this war. It must be done.

As your wartime governor, I pledge that the first consideration of your new state administration will be to render all possible service and co-operation to our Commander-in-Chief Franklin D. Roosevelt in the winning of this war. This is no time to tolerate internal bickering, strife or friction. We must have national unity; we must have political unity; we must have national loyalty and determination to win this war. It must be done.

Canaries Are Also 'Contrary,' Savannah Bird Authority Says

SAVANNAH, Ga., Oct. 7.—(AP) Canaries can show an artistic temperament, too, says Mrs. D. D. Calder, whose hobby of raising birds has turned into a profitable little business.

"If they're gonna sing, they're gonna sing, and if they won't, they won't."

Mrs. Calder began 10 years ago to realize a life-long desire to observe the life-habits of bird-folk, and today she is thoroughly involved in the business of a feathered family. Pet stores in Norfolk, Va., Jacksonville, Fla., and New York city offer for sale the wares she has lovingly produced.

We are going to cut personnel to the bone. We are going to decrease the number of jobs in state service rather than increase them. I here and now tell you that as your Governor I cannot give all of my friends jobs. I am not going to try to, and I hope that my real friends will be not insistent with patronage requests.

Exposure of Graft

I pledge to the people of Georgia and to the members of the convention that we will have an honest administration during my tenure of office. No one need employ lobbyists to get the ear of those with whom they would confer. No one need employ emissaries to see the Governor. I will be available to the people, to the humblest and highest citizens of this state alike.

If any citizen of Georgia hears of or knows of any graft or corruption in my official family of appointees, I want you to tell me. I shall be the first to expose any man or woman connected with the state during my administration, no matter how dear he may be to me, who racketeers, profits or thrives on corruption or unjust gains at the taxpayers' expense. Not only will I expose him but I will ask his swift punishment.

I want it clearly understood that I will veto any legislation that is inaugurated in this state to obtain a "pay-off" or to bring about a "shakedown" of legitimate business. With the help of the people, with the help of my appointees, with the help of the elected officials of Georgia, we are going to give the people an honorable and an honest administration of public affairs.

During my administration we will welcome to Georgia those who live beyond the confines of our state. We are glad to count among our finest citizens those who have come here from the east, from the west and other sections to dwell in

To convert delinquent birds into songsters, Mrs. Calder one time opened a classroom for singers, with her radio and phonograph serving as texts. But a canary has to be born to sing, she has concluded, and prompting doesn't prove satisfactory.

An expert in bird-sociology, Mrs. Calder knows, too, that while a twitter from the male cage is a welcome sound, a chirp from the female of the feathered family bodes no good. Singing canaries are usually dismal failures as mothers and are apt to leave their diminutive offspring without even an affectionate peck.

We are proud of our adopted citizens. We welcome all good Americans to Georgia.

Today, I want to impress upon the members of this convention that I am no extraordinary man. I am no genius. I have no great capabilities. I am just an ordinary fellow—a young man sincerely interested in doing a meritorious service for Georgia.

As your governor, my first responsibility is loyalty to principle. Loyalty to my friends is a second consideration.

Humility

And so today in accepting the nomination from my party, the prevailing party in my native state, in accepting the honor of becoming your first four-year governor, your wartime governor, I do so with full realization of the heavy responsibility which will be mine. I ask for your help. I ask for your co-operation. I pray that I may be aided by Him on high who shapes the destiny of mankind so that I may do a good job for my people.

The spirit in which I accept your nomination is revealed in that great poem, "The Recessional" written by famous Rudyard Kipling as a warning to those of us who may become drunk with power, a rebuke to materialistic tendencies and boastfulness, a protest against pride.

"The tumult and the shouting dies—"

"The captains and the kings depart—"

"Still stands Thine ancient sacrifice,"

"An humble and a contrite heart."

In that spirit, a spirit of humility, a spirit of contriteness, a spirit of humbleness, I desire to serve you as your chief executive in the perilous days which lie ahead.

Popular William Y. Atkinson Nominated to State High Court

Special to THE CONSTITUTION.
MACON, Ga., Oct. 7.—A rugged, honest lawyer, who can't be classed as a politician even though he has won election after election in his home county of Coweta, is William Y. Atkinson, nominee of the Democratic party for the post of associate justice of the Georgia supreme court.

"Bill" Atkinson's popularity in Georgia was attested today by the deafening roar of approval from delegates to the State Democratic Convention when his name was placed in nomination.

Not another nominee received more vociferous approval. The only one whose ovation equalled his was his young neighbor from Coweta county, Ellis Arnall, Georgia's choice for Governor.

"Bill" Atkinson was brought out into the limelight of state politics only this year, when he consented to handle the personal interests of his young neighbor, Ellis Arnall, through all the heat and turmoil of a bitter campaign.

"Bill Atkinson," says Ellis Arnall, "has run for office only once—that was the first time, years ago, when he was elected solicitor general of the Coweta county circuit."

"Since then, Bill has never had to run for office—no one has dared to oppose him. Coweta county wants no one else in the solicitor's office."

Calm Manner.
Atkinson has a calm, quiet way of handling the affairs of those who seek the aid of the county solicitor.

"He'll go before a grand jury," said Arnall, "and he'll tell them: 'Gentlemen, let's throw this case out. There's nothing to it. It's all just the result of two neighbors getting into a quarrel. No one ought to be indicted.'"

"And the Coweta grand jury always act on Atkinson's advice—which is always correct."

"Atkinson has no patience with the self-seeking soul who tries to amass a fortune out of the taxpayers' pocketbooks through politics."

In Arnall's headquarters this last summer, when he had moved up to Atlanta, Atkinson sat quietly apart, judging the right and the wrong of various moves proposed by dozens of other Arnall supporters.

Atkinson always insisted on the right. And the honest course. Many visitors to Arnall's headquarters would accept Atkinson as the last word in Georgia politics and they'd lay their problems about various county troubles in his lap.

"But, I don't know all these Georgia politicians," Atkinson would protest. "I've never tried to live outside my own home and office."

Politics Is Distasteful.
Politics is distasteful to him, although he won't admit it.

As permanent chairman of the convention for a while today, he said:

"We hold this meeting in the most critical time of our history—a time when our American boys are occupying battlefronts throughout the world for the purpose of preserving our democratic form of government. And let us not forget that those boys are baring their breasts that you and I may be protected in life as we are today."

"In view of this, I would be evading my duty as the presiding officer of the convention, if I did not plainly and boldly say that in my judgment, large political gatherings such as this should be avoided."

Against Convention.
"To consume effort, energy and materials in gathering delegates from each county in the state in time of war is a mistake, and an economic waste. And if the war continues, it is to be hoped that our executive committee can adopt some other and less burdensome method to carry out the functions of this convention."

Politicians like conventions. "Bill" Atkinson's courage was demonstrated when he stood in front of more than 3,000 politicians from all points of Georgia today and made an unpopular statement like that.

But the politicians applauded the statement.

They like "Bill" Atkinson. He's the man Diogenes wore out lanterns on in the search that started before the days of kerosene lanterns.

Tommy Manville Hits Altar Trail

NEW ROCHELLE, N. Y., Oct. 7. (AP)—Tommy Manville has intentions again.

Twenty-year-old Actress Wilhelm (Billy) Boze, of Andrews, S. C., showed up with the 48-year-old marriage slip knot champion at the office of City Clerk Charles U. Combes and obtained a license today.

She's Tommy's third announced choice for bride No. 6. Instead of the customary jewels and orchids from the dean of night clubs, the blonde actress sported a fistful of war bonds.

The wedding, Manville said, was set for 4:30 p. m. Sunday in Tommy's pagoda-like Premium Point estate with Mayor Stanley W. Church officiating.

The bride-elect said she had attended Mary Baldwin College, Staunton, Va., and Duke University.

NATURALIZATION EXTENDED.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—(AP)—Senator Green, Democrat, Rhode Island, introduced today a bill to permit the naturalization of aliens with husbands, sons or daughters serving in the armed forces of this country, even though the applicant for citizenship could not meet such requirements as ability to speak English, or to sign a petition.

Commission Votes To Build New Roadway

Three Present, Board Orders Street Work in Center Hill.

With only three members present, the Fulton county commissioners held their monthly meeting yesterday and voted to build a road through property formerly owned by the Plaster estate to a 33-acre plot which the county traded last year to Malsby, Inc., in exchange for a tract in Center Hill.

The Malsby plot, off Long Island road, was originally purchased as a site for the almshouse for approximately $5,000. Harry Malsby, appearing for Malsby, Inc., said yesterday that at the time of the exchange, the county promised to build a number of roads to give him outlets through surrounding property. He said that at present, there was only a bridge path leading to it.

Commissioner Ed L. Almond moved the road be built as soon as possible. Dr. Charles R. Adams objected on the ground the public works department could not undertake more projects this year and suggested that it be put over till the first of the year. Chairman Troy Chastain voted with Almond and the motion carried.

The commission also voted to drain off mosquito breeding ponds along the Chattahoochee river near Bolton and Riverside after Dr. R. W. McGee, of the health department, reported 26 cases of malaria of the worst type had developed in that section.

Tarver's 'Hall of Heroes' Pictures Proves Interesting

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—(AP)—Collecting photographs is a hobby common to many who have offices on Capitol Hill, but few offices can boast a collection in common with that of Representative Tarver, of Dalton, Ga.

It is a private "Hall of Heroes," a gallery of pictures of all the young men the congressman has appointed to West Point and Annapolis.

Now they are helping write history, and as the newspapers chronicle some special deed on the battlefield of one of the group, a clipping is carefully affixed to the back of the picture so that his exploits may be remembered.

Typical of those in the collection, hung on the walls of Tarver's private office, is Lieutenant William S. Guest, of Rome, Ga. He took part in the Coral Sea battle, and came back in his dive bomber to an airplane carrier with 46 bullet holes in his plane. One bullet had glanced from the plane windshield and grazed his forehead.

Then there's Charles Hillhouse, of Lafayette, Ga., whose name has been mentioned several times in front-line dispatches for outstanding flying ability.

The photo gallery includes the following Georgians: Annapolis appointees—Samuel Floyd Spencer, of Cave Spring; James P. Craft Jr., of Rome; William S. Guest, of Rome; Gideon M. Boyd, of Adairsville; John Dudley Jr., of Marietta; Marvin D. Norton, of Marietta; George Herring, of Rockmart; Charles A. Hill Jr., of Marietta; Julius M. Elrod Jr., of Mount Berry; Julian Arnold Jr., of Douglasville; Charles Davis Mize, of Cave Spring; James Crawford Bellah, of Lafayette.

West Point appointees—Sewell Brumby, of Cedartown; George Allen Carver, of Rome; Tim Willis, of Rome; Benjamin M. Tarver, of Lookout Mountain, Tenn. (Walker county, Ga.); Charles Hillhouse, of Lafayette; Harry White Trimble, of Adairsville; Albert M. Ward, of Adairsville; Morton C. Crumack, Route 3, Chattanooga (Walker county, Ga.); Albert Quincy Brooks, of Rome; Robert McKissen Herron, of Dalton; William Henry Bramblett, of Chatsworth.

Also on the walls of the congressman's office in the West Point group is the picture of Harry Jarvis, of Dalton, who won his appointment upon the merit basis at Tennessee Military Institute, Sweetwater, Tenn. He is in the Air Corps now.

HEARINGS CONTINUED.

New Film Crop Offers Drama And Musicale

Western, Two Holdovers Complete List of Current Bills.

The motion picture of Somerset Maugham's great novel, "The Moon and Sixpence," which opens at Loew's Grand today, highlights the new crop of movies that includes a musicale, a western drama and two holdovers.

"Iceland," starring Sonja Henie and John Payne is offered at the Fox, starting tomorrow. "Men of Texas" is the Roxy feature, beginning tomorrow. "Pride of the Yankees," Samuel Goldwyn's night and begins its regular run today.

Fox

Twentieth Century-Fox's merry musicale, "Iceland," starring Sonja Henie, John Payne and Jack Kaye's orchestra, makes its bow on the screen of the Fox tomorrow.

Highlighted with romance, music and skating by Miss Henie, "Iceland" is set in Reykjavik, the capital of Iceland, where a group of American Marines are stationed.

Oakie and Payne play the parts of Marine non-coms. The music by Mack Gordon and Harry Warren offers such songs as "You Can't Say No to a Soldier," "Lover's Knot," "Let's Bring Glory to Old Glory" and others.

Loew's Grand

Realism, drama and exciting romance are combined in "The Moon and Sixpence," which begins a week's engagement at Loew's Grand today. George Sanders, Herbert Marshall and Doris Dudley are the stars.

Written by Somerset Maugham, this story revolves around the life of an unusual wealthy man, who foresees his fortune to become an artist. Sanders in the role of Charles Strickland, leaves his fashionable London home for a shabby Parisian garret and the waterfront dives of Marseilles.

Miss Dudley handles the role of the wife of Sander's best friend, who, over the protest of Marshall, finds romance with the shabby painter.

Roxy

A thrilling western story of the hectic days following the Civil War, "Men of Texas," opens tomorrow on the screen of the Roxy theater with Jackie Cooper, Ralph Bellamy, Anne Gwynne, Robert Stack and Broderick Crawford in the leading roles.

Jackie Cooper does away with his knee pants and plays the part of a two-fisted cowboy who fights for the love of Miss Gwynne, a southern belle.

Stack handles the part of a Chicago newspaper reporter assigned to cover the disturbances in the south. Crawford is a masquerading bandit. The story is set in the Lone Star State.

Capitol

"Orchestra Wives," the tuneful story of how wives of musicians live while on the road, starring George Montgomery and Ann Rutherford, moves to the Capitol today for a second week's run.

Glenn Miller and his famous orchestra provide the musical background and many of the bandmen play small parts.

Miss Rutherford plays the part of a small town girl who marries a trumpeter and soon finds that traveling from town to town on one night stands is not a life of roses.

Love to You, My Son...

A mother's love for her son is strong—so strong that it spans oceans, ignores separating mountains. It sparkles like dew in the sunlight, dims like dusk in the face of sorrow and cries to the world with unashamed tears.

But that love holds fast even in the face of sacrifice or death.

It's a brave as well as a selfish love—hard to define. Mrs. William H. Maxwell, of Lexington, Ga., does define in poetry her love for Ensign William H. Maxwell Jr., who flies for the Navy.

Love To You, My Son

Over the crystal blue of the sea
Deep under the star-lit sky,
Ever watching for the enemy plane
That's where my son must fly.

With never a thought of danger ahead,
With the courage of youth in his heart,
With an eager gleam in his deep blue eyes
He is bravely doing his part.

My heart was not willing to give him up
When he heard his country's call,
But I saw my boy, now grown up,
Ready to give his all.

No word of complaint has come to me;
He stands quietly ready and true,
To sacrifice the life I gave
For mothers like me and you.

And God in His infinite wisdom can see
Other battles that are fought today,
Not just the ones on sea and land
But in the hearts of mothers that pray;

Mothers who pray, "Thy will be done,"
But who cry in their broken hearts,
"O God, please spare my son to me—
Why can't I bear his part?"

Sweet young son, as you fly above
Under the star-lit sky,
A mother's prayer encircles you,
Ever whispered to God on high.

But if in the line of duty you fall—
And can no more come to me,
I'll see you as under a star-lit sky—
As over a crystal sea.

which he is starred as a young American boy who attends England's most high school, moves to the Rhodes today for a third week in Atlanta.

Appearing with Mickey is Freddie Bartholomew and Tina Turner, a newcomer to the screen.

Mickey gets into and out of lots of trouble and finally winds up as the rage of famous Eton.

HIGGINS PERSISTS.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—(AP)—Despite the loss of a contract to build cargo ships, Andrew J. Higgins, of New Orleans, is back in town trying to interest the government in his plans for producing giant cargo planes.

Six Georgians Indicted by U.S. On Five Counts

All Charged With Setting
Blazes in National Forest.

Indictments against six north Georgians were returned yesterday by a federal grand jury here on charges of "willfully and maliciously" setting fires in the Chattahoochee National Forest. Four indictments were returned in connection with fires which were allegedly set April 11, 19 and 20, according to the grand jury's findings.

Single charges were made against Russell Rider and Howard Patterson, both of whom were again named along with the defendants in the other two true bills. Others named were Garfield Rider, Sam Sane, Claud Collins and Clayton Rider.

A number of witnesses were said to have appeared before the grand jurors.

Earlier in the week, when charging the new grand jury, District Judge E. Marvin Underwood had declared forest fires not only injure timber values, but also threaten our sources of water supply and subject the land itself to erosion of its fertility, and added that in a time of national emergency, the forest firebug is a saboteur.

These indictments are returnable in the Gainesville division of the district court.

Irving Melsher and his "Follow the Leader Band" will resume the Saturday night dancing parties with a new idea—a jitterbug contest—Saturday night at the Shrine Mosque ballroom.

Melsher, who completed a recent successful engagement at the Southeastern Fair, where his band was featured nightly, will offer prizes each Saturday night for the champion jitterbug team of Atlanta. For those who can't do the fast steps, Irving's band will feature lots of sweet and mellow tunes.

Shells, With Explosive,

Thrown in Scrap Pile

DENVER, Oct. 7.—(AP)—Nick Farr grew nervous as he looked at the scrap pile at his filling station. He called the police explosive squad.

His suspicions were confirmed. A veteran of the war of 1917-1918 had tossed in his collection of 75 mm. shells and hand grenades without removing the explosives.

That's being taken care of now.

Post-War Trials Of Axis Leaders for High Crimes Seen

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—(AP)—A post-war trial of Adolf Hitler for high crimes against humanity was apparently foreshadowed today when President Roosevelt said the terms of United Nations victory would call for punishment of "ringleaders" responsible for "organized murder" and other "atrocities."

Without mentioning Hitler by name, the President disclosed that the United Nations were already moving to set up a commission to gather evidence for use at post-war trials.

Drawing a sharp line between Axis leaders and the people under them, Mr. Roosevelt said in a statement:

"It is not the intention of this government or of the governments associated with us to resort to mass reprisals. It is our intention that just and sure punishment shall be meted out to the ringleaders responsible for the organized murder of thousands of innocent persons and the commission of atrocities which have violated every tenet of the Christian faith."

Later Sumner Welles, acting secretary of state, was asked by reporters whether Hitler was one of those who would be placed on trial. He said he would leave the answer to the excellent judgment of those who raised the question.

In the house of lords at London Viscount Maugham, former lord chancellor, had demanded the death of "that gloomy monomaniac Hitler and the entourage he has gathered around him, the great majority of German fighting forces, and the Gestapo," in payment for acts of cold-blooded cruelty.

One Moment Please...

is Your Call Really Necessary?

Telephone lines and central office equipment handling calls within the city are rapidly becoming crowded. Many of these are war calls, but many more are civilian calls that are not always necessary.

As a result of this crowded condition, war calls are threatened with delay. This is because every local call you make goes through the same equipment that handles war calls. This equipment has a definite capacity—it can handle only so many calls at a time. If more than this number are made, some must wait.

War calls must not wait and we know you don't want them to. So we ask you to use the telephone less so that war industries and the armed forces can use it more. Make at least one-third fewer calls and please be brief. Ask members of your family, your associates and servants to do likewise.

We are confident you will gladly make this sacrifice to help insure the prompt handling of vital war calls. With your help we can continue to furnish adequate communication facilities for war business.

Caution your children against unnecessary use of the telephone

REFUGEE—The Rev. Victor Dossogne, Jesuit priest from Belgium, will speak in Atlanta in the next few weeks on his adventures while watching and escaping the Nazi war machine.

Belgian Priest Who Fled Nazis To Speak Here

Rev. Victor Dossogne Escaped Under Noses of Germans.

By AL SHARP.

The Rev. Victor Dossogne, Jesuit Belgian priest who lived through the terror that dive bombers and strafing planes dealt thousands and thousands of panicky refugees fleeing the Nazi war machine, was in Atlanta yesterday to make arrangements for lectures so "Atlantans can know of total war."

After his thrilling escape through Belgium, Occupied France, Spain and Portugal, the Rev. Dossogne came to America, where he became a professor at Loyola University in New Orleans last year. He is on leave of absence for a lecture tour.

The Belgian priest was caught in the south of France when the French army surrendered. He stayed for a while among the refugees, then made his way back to Belgium.

Escapes Bullet.

During his stay in France he barely escaped being shot by the French, who suspected him of being a parachutist. But the most exciting of his experiences was an eight-day trip by bicycle from Belgium through the occupied lands to Spain.

"I could see the Nazi flags flying over their outposts," the priest related, "and I asked townspeople along the way for the best way to go. Perhaps that was why I got along all right. I was lucky."

"My closest call came near the line of demarcation—the line you have to cross to get out of Occupied France."

"Two German soldiers came along as I pushed my bicycle up a long hill. I had lived in Germany three years and knew their language. I greeted the Germans, passed the time of day with them. They were members of the guard, but not on duty."

Good Journey.

"I asked them how to reach a town in Occupied France. They bade me 'Good journey' and walked on. I went between the flags marking the German outposts. No one stopped me."

"No, I wasn't shot at. I learned that a man attempting to get through the lines was killed near there. But," added the priest, gesturing, "I was lucky. The rest of the trip was easy."

"Could you ride a bicycle for eight days?" one of the women on the staff who was listening asked the reporter.

"Well, I might if I wasn't getting shot at," was the reply. "Deadly serious," the Rev. Dossogne said.

"I wouldn't ride a bicycle in your country. Too dangerous. Look at all the automobiles."

Underground Working.

"If I had had some stockings, soap and pork and who feel tired, weary, sick, you no discipline, suffer weak and upset stomach, bad complexion and bad breath due to round or throat, you should test Smith's Worms. For men, women and children. The very first bottle of Smith's Worms should quickly relieve and make you feel like a new person or money back. Ask your druggist for Smith's Worms today. (Mail orders write National Co., Dept. C Box 266, Atlanta, Ga.)

"The food problem is bad. The blockade lets nothing in. A million soldiers and half million civilians have been added to the population which already was too big for the country. They take the food while Belgians starve. It's not as bad as Greece yet, but bad."

"Yet I can safely say that no Belgian would want a single item of food sent to them if they thought even a part of it would go to the Nazis."

REVIVAL SERVICES.

MONTEZUMA, Ga., Oct. 7.—Revival services at the Methodist church in Montezuma, conducted by the pastor, the Rev. B. A. Pafford, are drawing a large attendance each day. Business places close from 11 to 11:45 each morning for the early service. The meeting will close on Sunday.

Says What He 'Damn Pleases,' Willkie Avers

By J. REILLY O'SULLIVAN.
WITH UNITED STATES FORCES IN CHINA, Oct. 7.—(AP) Wendell L. Willkie traded information with officers and men at an American Army air base today after winding up his Chungking visit with a declaration that he was speaking for himself, when he made statements such as his Moscow call for a second front.

Revolving to questions at a press conference, he said he had been commissioned by the President to do certain things and that in anything connected with them he was the President's representative and acted accordingly.

"But when I speak for myself," he added, "I'm Wendell Willkie and say what I damn please." He said he was speaking as a private individual in all his public statements made so far on his tour of 13 countries.

"I speak for no one else and no one else ever speaks for me," he declared. Shortly before leaving Chungking Willkie had his fifth conference with Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek. Altogether he has spent about 10 hours with Chiang.

Willkie was accompanied on his visit to the United States air base by Lieutenant General Joseph W. Stilwell. He talked with the commander, Brigadier General Claire L. Chennault, and several other officers and men, and then went to a straw-thatched pavilion at the edge of the field and exchanged questions with about 100 officers and men who sprawled about at ease.

He was asked, "Is there any possibility of getting some women's auxiliaries over here?"

"I thought you boys came over here to fight," he quipped back.

Wesleyan Group to Purchase Bonds With Program Fund

• • • WESLEYAN ALUMNAE GROUP III is buying war stamps with the money saved when the members decided against having programs made outlining 1942-43 activities. It so happens, however, that they did not, after all, have to do without programs, because Mrs. Vernon Kyle, whose mother, Mrs. R. J. Taylor Jr., is the ingenious program chairman for Group III, and Martha Aiken, daughter of Mrs. W. S. Aiken, who is the newly elected co-chairman, volunteered to undertake the task of making them.

Mrs. Kyle, the former Betty Taylor, sketched the map adorning the cover of the leaflet, the map being appropriate because the lectures to be made throughout the year by Group III members will deal with "Far-Flung Possessions." The sketch is a copy of the world map, recently exhibited at Columbia University, which has been adopted for use in air travel to the war zones. The map presents the world as viewed from the North Pole. Martha compiled and typed the program, the leaflet featuring the Wesleyan colors, lavender and purple.

Officers elected at Tuesday's meeting, announced for the first time today, are Mrs. Young Fraser, chairman; Mrs. W. S. Aiken, co-chairman; Mrs. E. G. Twitty, secretary; Mrs. William H. Barnwell, treasurer; Miss Miriam Rogers, registrar, and Mrs. R. J. Taylor Jr., program chairman.

Topics to be discussed throughout the year include "The British Empire," by Mrs. Thad Horton; "Advancing the Tricolor," by Mrs. W. C. Dumas; "Germany's Colonial Ambitions," by Mrs. George Slappy; "Italian Colonies," by Mrs. Hugh Dobbin; "Japan on the Continent and in the Islands," by Mrs. Raymond Dixon; "Dutch East Indies," by Mrs. Jeff McCord; "Outposts of Soviet Union," by Mrs. W. C. Key; "Wards of the U. S. Alaska, Hawaii and Philippines," by Mrs. J. C. Withers, who is, incidentally, the aunt of the Hollywood starlet, Jane Withers; and "Toward a Just and Lasting Peace," by a guest speaker.

Having been assigned their subjects for discussion, the members will now be busy consulting reference books and newspapers in the compiling of accurate facts for their lectures. Debutante Marjorie Ragan and Torrance Chalmers are among Atlanta belles now enrolled in America's oldest chartered college for women in Macon.

The revue will be a means of raising funds for the forthcoming Victory Garden Harvest Show to be sponsored by the association on October 16 at the Driving Club.

Two members from each of the six member clubs have been selected by their associates to model. They include Mrs. John L. Conner and Mrs. Chester Wilson, of the Club Estates Garden Club; Mrs. T. C. Law Jr. and Mrs. Olin Adcock, Camellia Club; Mrs. Forrest Adair Jr. and Mrs. Harry Gilham; Clay Hills; Mrs. Mark Palmour Jr. and Mrs. Howard Martin, Colonial; Mrs. Dan Clarke and Mrs. H. L. ## Miss Naomi Goen Weds Lt. Harkey

The East Point Christian Church formed the setting recently for the marriage of Miss Naomi Goen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Goen, to Lieutenant John Harkey, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Harkey. Rev. R. O. Weaver officiated and music was presented by Mrs. Bayne Smith, organist, and Miss Mary Helen Corley, soloist.

The ushers were Millard Harkey, brother of the groom, and Roy Goen, brother of the bride.

Miss Beth Goen, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. She wore a hyacinth blue mousseline dress and carried a bouquet of roses, and pastel chrysanthemums. The lovely bride was given in marriage by her brother, J. T. Goen Jr., and the bridegroom had his brother, Walter E. Harkey, as best man. The bride was gowned in white mousseline with a fitted bodice of lace, and a fingertip veil of tulle held in place with a cluster of lilies of the valley. Her necklace of pearls was a gift from the bridegroom and her bouquet was of white pompon chrysanthemums and purple orchids.

The bride's mother chose a purple crepe dress and the bridegroom's mother wore blue crepe; both wore sprays of white chrysanthemums.

A reception, given by the bride's parents, followed the ceremony. Mrs. Helen Wood kept the bride's book, and assisting in entertaining were Misses Elizabeth Ann Oliver, Grace Stratton, and Floy Harkey, and Mesdames Fred Lee, William Sanders, and A. A. McKibben.

The couple will reside in Hattiesburg, Miss., near Camp Shelby, where Lieutenant Harkey is assigned to duty. The bride wore for traveling an olive green ensemble with brown accessories and orchids.

Tea Compliments Miss Ramspeck

Mrs. Boyd Sutton and Mrs. Roy G. Jones entertained at a tea yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Jones in Decatur, complimenting Miss Betty Lynn Ramspeck, lovely bride-elect daughter of Congressman and Mrs. Robert Ramspeck.

The invited guests were Misses Ramspeck, Adelaide Gregory, Nancy Green, Rena Grizzell, Nancy Kirkland, Mary Estill Martin, Louise Trotti, Jessie Sutton, Mesdames Robert Ramspeck, Jarrell Dunsen, Jean E. Kirkland, Ann Elkin Martin, William Schley Howard, Hugh H. Trotti, Clyde Z. Walker, Alfred Branch, A. H. Wilson, Frank Kroner, Hugh Wright.

Rehearsal Supper Honors Couple

Concluding the series of pre-nuptial parties given for Miss Jeanne Fuller and Lieutenant Stephen Schmidt, whose marriage takes place today, was the rehearsal supper given last evening by Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Andrews at their home on Glenn circle.

The buffet table was overlaid with a handsome lace cloth and centered with an arrangement of pink dahlias, flanked on either side by silver candelabra holding lighted pink tapers. The silver coffee service was placed at one end of the table.

Mrs. O. A. Rumbley and Mrs. A. D. Barker assisted in entertaining. Guests included Misses Janet

Bushfield, Mary Scott, Ethelynde Greene, Alice Bragg, Mr. and Mrs. Winburn Mitcham, Mr. and Mrs. Calvin McMillan, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Gasque, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas

Fuller, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Johnston, Mrs. Enid McCann, Father F. Marion Perry, Robert Fuller, Bob Andrews, Lieutenant James Wood and others.

Miss Lanier Weds Sgt. J. M. Porter

Miss Juanita Josephine Lanier, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Emory S. Lanier Sr., became the bride of Sergeant Joseph Miles Porter, of Fort Myers, Fla., on Tuesday evening at the home of the bride on Austin avenue.

Dr. Louie D. Newton, of the Druid Hills Baptist church, officiated at 8:30 o'clock in the presence of relatives and a few friends. The musical program was presented by Mrs. P. B. Matthews, pianist, and Mrs. E. F. Johnson, vocalist, and the tapers were lighted by W. W. McCrea.

The improvised altar in the living room was banked with palms, centered with an urn of white gladioli and seven-branched candelabra stood at intervals in the chancel. The couple knelt on a white satin prayer bench.

Miss Carrie Thimond, cousin of the bride, was maid of honor, and Mrs. Emory S. Lanier Jr., sister of the bride, was matron of honor. They were gowned alike in models of turquoise with grograin taffeta tops and bouffant neck skirts. They carried arm bouquets of pink roses.

The radiant bride entered with her father and they were met at the altar by the groom and Edward Porter, father of the groom, who acted as best man. Her exquisite gown was of blue, pink, the long, full skirt, which swept into a circular train, was shirred onto the long-waisted bodice. The sweet-heart neckline was trimmed with rosepoint lace and the long satin sleeves extended to points over the hand. The veil, which was first worn by the bride's sister, Mrs. Emory S. Lanier Jr., was of illusion tulle with coronet of seed pearls. The veil was caught to the coronet with orange blossoms. She carried a white prayer book topped with white orchids. In the prayer book, she carried a lace handkerchief, 50 years old, and carried by several brides. Her only ornament was a diamond necklace, a family heirloom and given to the bride by her cousin, Miss Carrie Thimond.

'Faith, Courage and Wisdom' Is Mrs. Thomason's Subject

Members of Fifth District of Georgia Federation of Women's Clubs, 105 strong, met at the Atlanta Woman's Club on Tuesday, with the president, Mrs. W. L. Thomason, in the chair. Building her talk around the chosen theme, "Faith, Courage and Wisdom," Mrs. Thomason urged her hearers to put on the armor of faith, to keep a great courage in their hearts, and to call upon wisdom at this time when a tremendous responsibility has fallen upon the shoulders of clubwomen. Officers were introduced who brought plans of work and expressions of loyalty to the president and the district.

Recognized as past presidents were Mesdames Kate Green Hess, Albert Akers, J. P. MacDougald, P. J. McGovern, John D. Evans and Chester E. Martin. Mrs. Turner Smith said the determined goal of the Tallulah Falls school committee is $1 from each club member and affirmed that Hapeville Woman's Club has attained its objective. Mrs. Albert Hill, president of Tallulah trustees, said the school gives training for a permanent line of defense, and told of the service flag with 68 stars hung in the auditorium.

Student Aid Trophy. As a spur to interest, the student aid committee, through the chairman, Mrs. John F. Echols, offers a silver trophy to be given annually to the club doing the most outstanding work for the foundation, and to be known as the Mary Connally Spalding award. Quoting from the current report of the Ella F. White Endowment, Mrs. John MacDougald showed how the district led in contributions and urged a continuance of support.

The dominant note from the chairman was "War Service." Mrs. P. J. McGovern, head of this department, urged women to show themselves worthy, thoughtful citizens. She and her chairman are preparing forums on controversial subjects to be conducted pro and con at gatherings.

Speaking for the war effort was Mrs. Ralph Butler, of Dallas, state chairman and head of the women's division of the War Service Staff. Salvage of war material and purchase of bonds and stamps were emphasized by Mrs. Butler who stated, "It has gotten to where it is literally bonds or bombs." Mrs. Charles D. Ward stated that Garden Hills Woman's Club converted its savings of $1,100 into war bonds.

Mrs. Jarrell Dunson, of LaGrange, general federation director for Georgia, explained some of the services the mother organization gives its unit members. Better acquaintance with the general federation, will promote interest in the departments headed by experts who provide excellent material along all lines of club activity.

"Western Hemisphere Solidarity and the Welfare of Peoples," was the patriotic theme of an address by Mrs. H. B. Ritchie, of Athens, general federation public welfare chairman, who developed her subject along two lines, why there has not always been an understanding between North and South America, and what should be done about it. Facts should be clarified and it is the responsibility of clubwomen to give truth to their neighbors and to get truth back from them.

Resolution Indorsed.

The public welfare department presented a resolution read by Mrs. H. A. Watts, chairman, stating the "urgent need and vital importance of a psychopathic ward to be included as a definite unit of the Henry Grady Municipal hospital," which was indorsed. Reporting for the public welfare department were Mrs. W. L. McCauley, chairman; Mrs. Charles S. Smith, child welfare; Mrs. E. T. Stallings, community service; Mrs. C. D. Carter, co-operation with the blind; Mrs. T. H. Austin, health; Mrs. Howard McCutcheon, delinquent adults.

The war slant was given each of the other departments, by Mrs. Chester Martin, citizenship; Mrs. W. J. Webb, American home; Mrs. Kate Green Hess, religious training in the home; Mrs. R. L. Proctor, education; Mrs. C. M. Settle, adult education; Mrs. Arthur H. Styrton, fine arts; Mrs. Alex Brown, poetry; Mrs. W. Beverly Johnson, music; Mrs. A. B. Lee, international relations; Mrs. J. S. ## State Baptist W. M. U. Board Reviews Activities at Meeting

The executive board, Georgia Baptist W. M. U., met recently with Mrs. Peter Kittles, of Savannah, presiding. The devotional period was conducted by Mrs. M. F. Roberts.

According to reports from various sections, the "Mrs. W. J. Neel season of prayer and offerings for state missions" was observed with unusual fervor and generosity. As a result of the study of state needs many societies are launching definite undertakings for the advancement of Georgia missions. Miss Janice Singleton, executive secretary, announced W. M. U. receipts for September totaling $25,792, which is a net increase of $3,142 over September of last year. A tour of Young Women's Auxiliaries of the colleges of the state is being planned for October by Mrs. Kittles and Miss Frances Turner, secretary of Young People. Miss Turner's activities for the past month have included a consecration service held with the Girls' Auxiliary at Oakhurst; Y. W. A. mission study class taught at Columbus; Auxiliary and Ambassador meetings at Virginia Avenue, Second-Pence de Leon and Oakland City. Miss Turner also represented W. M. U. work at Macon conference of Business Women, Association meeting at Lowry and divisional meetings at Valdosta and Ocilla with Mrs. D. C. Bussell as divisional vice president.

Mrs. W. J. Neel, president emerita of Georgia W. M. U., suggests that Royal Ambassadors, might most appropriately name their chapters for William Cary, known in church history as the "father of modern mission."

Institutes Announced. Mrs. M. F. Roberts and Mrs. J. M. Gibson, vice presidents of the North West and North Central divisions, announce their annual institutes for October 8-9 at Summerville and Cedartown, and October 15-16 at Oakhurst, Atlanta and Blue Ridge. October 1-2 institutes were held at Bainbridge and Richland, with Mrs. C. A. Hautman, of Dawson, presiding. Other divisional vice presidents, dates and places of institutes will be: Mrs. W. P. Warren, Waynesboro, October 7-8; Mrs. A. T. Cline, Toccoa and Gainesville, October 13-14; Mrs. W. C. King, Baxley and Millen, October 20-21; Mrs. J. M. Trimmer, Barnesville, October 22-23.

Through the department of stewardship, Mrs. J. C. Lanier, chairman, is asking that if possible, associations and divisions provide centennial memberships, costing $100 through the 100-thousand club toward Georgia W. M. U.'s $100,000 pledges to the denomination's debt-paying campaign. More than $74,700 of this pledge has already been paid.

Mrs. W. A. Duncan, reporting schools of missions now being held over the state, while others are being planned. Popular courses are the series of graded studies on Cuba and on South America. Mrs. George Fiske, department of personal service, is leaving the state to spend some time in California.

Miss Lucy Wright, of China, who has been the recent guest of Mrs. Marshall Nelms, gave interesting facts concerning the taking over by the Japanese of the Warren Memorial hospital buildings at Hwaughien. Much of the hospital equipment, however, was taken by Dr. Hau, a Chinese doctor who had long been connected with this hospital, to Free China and there the transferred Warren Memorial hospital continues its work of mercy. Therefore, contributions for foreign white cross are yet much needed.

Georgians in Training. The nine Georgia girls at the Louisville W. M. U. Training school are given to the divisions for "mothering" as follows: Catherine Bates, Atlanta, North-Central division; Dorothy Bracey, Augusta, South-East division; Margaret Collins, Commerce, East-Central division; Jewell Fowler, Milledgeville, West-Central division; Dixie Nicholson, Athens, East-Central division; Ann Cochran, Dublin, South-West division; Lou Demie Segars, Cornelia, North-East division; Marie Waters, High Shoals, South-Central division; Marguerite McKenzie, Rome, North-West division.

By unanimous vote all past state presidents were made honorary members of the executive board. The resignation of Mrs. Mitchell Edwards was accepted.

Members present at Tuesday's meeting were: Mesdames Peter Kittles, W. J. Neel, Paul S. Etheridge, M. F. Roberts, J. M. Gibson, Roger S. Howell, Emory S. Caldwell, S. D. Katz, W. A. Duncan, J. C. Lanier, Marshall Nelms, E. C. Laird, R. B. Adair, Gordon Weekley, W. B. Brown, V. M. Womack, W. S. Cantrell, V. S. Chables, Carlton Binns, L. O. Freeman, Miss Janice Singleton and Miss Frances Turner.

A Firm Refusal Is Best Way to End Unwelcome Attentions

By Dixie George.

Dear Dixie:

I am in love with a soldier. He is 18 and I am 15. I know we are both too young, but we have both told each other of our love. Just a few weeks ago he asked me to marry him and I told him I would. He wants to send me a ring, but mother does not approve of him. She has another boy selected for me, and she has planned a party without my knowing it, and has invited him to be my date. Since I have told the soldier that I will marry him, I want to be true to him, for I have proof that he has been true to me. Do you think I should go out with this other boy? I do not have a ring and I cannot explain things to my mother. I know that I cannot have a good time with the other boy, for I will be thinking of the soldier all the time. The soldier and I have planned to wait until the war is over and until I finish school next year. What would you suggest?

If I were you I would tell my mother that you would like to have the soldier as my date for the party. You do not have to give any reason, except that you like him. Until you have the ring from him it is perfectly alright for you to go with other boys. I do not think that date your mother has selected for you is the man she wants you to marry. You are a bit too young for that. She just likes him and thinks he would be a nice escort for you to have.

LONELY SOLDIER WOULD LIKE LETTERS FROM GIRLS

Dear Dixie:

This letter may seem a bit strange to you, but I am hoping that you will print it in your column. You see, it is this way. We are two lonely soldiers and we would like to correspond with some girls near here. We are patients at Lawson General Hospital. We are able to get out of bed, but have been unable to attain passes as yet.

We have received no correspondence with any girls since we have been located here at the hospital. Seems to me like we are two forgotten boys who have lonely hearts. We would appreciate anyone who would be interested in corresponding with us. Thank you.

HERMAN DAWSON,

The proceeds from the sale of these cunning bars of soap will benefit China's war sufferers.

Menopause Is No Cause for Heart Trouble

By Dr. William Brady.

A reader suggests, among other things, that I ought to address a series of articles on the prevention and early treatment of CVD to doctors. On the contrary, I think I had better not, for I have few friends left among the doctors as it is. So let me continue saying what I have to say in answer to other questions the reader raises. I'm merely giving my idea or opinion in any case, if not long ago, says change of life often causes heart trouble and when the change is over the heart trouble ceases. However, for over 10 years now I have been having the change...

October 23-November 21 (SCORPIO)—The period previous to 3:25 p. m. favors dealings in real estate and matters that have already been started. ## Double Feature Programs Will Come to an End On First of December

By Harold Heffernan.

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 7.—Behind movie headlines: Exhibitors aren't aware of it yet, but your old friend (?) the double feature is scheduled to become extinct as of December 1.

Under pressure from the film conservation committee, studios are already using 25 per cent less film raw stock than they did a year ago. By December 1 they will be cutting the old figure almost in half. And also by that date there won't be enough pictures to service the more than 15,000 theaters of the nation with two features for each program.

It will be an automatic and welcome slaughter of an octopus that has plagued studios, exhibitors and fans over a 12-year period. The double feature bill, if you want to go into history, was born during the early depression days following the 1928 stock market crash. The idea quickly spread to all parts of the world.

Shooting out of it came the raffle, bank night, free automobiles, dishes and countless other giveaways and lobby merchandizing schemes—not to mention the candy bar with its open invitation for customers to come buy caramels and unwarp and chew them in the ear of seat neighbors.

All polls to the contrary (the public still votes almost 2 to 1 in favor of double bills), it will be a glad day when movie houses go back into show business again.

NEWS IN NIBBLES: Strangest feud in town reported between Sara Algood and Roddy McDowall. They played mother and son beautifully in "How Green Was My Valley." Now they just glare at each other. Every body who meets Lana Turner these days is immediately greeted with the line: "I have never been so happy in my life." Nobody asks; Lana just comes right out with it. Interesting conversation, nevertheless. Gregory Ratoff, riotous Russian director, was bawling out the wardrobe man about Don Ameche's hat. "Why, Mr. Ameche could do better with one of his own hats," he scolded. Ratoff, who apologized, "is my own hat." Almost tragic was the case of Mary El-lott, who got to Hollywood because she was "Miss South Carolina." A date with her boy friend

Foot Exercises Are Good But Fail To Reduce the Feet

By Ida Jean Kain.

One of the most amusing incidents recounted by my friend, Private Marion Hargrove, has to do with shoes for his war wardrobe. The supply clerk called out a size 10-12 for the private. "But," he protested, "I wear a size 9!" And the retort to that was, "You say nine, your foot says 10-12. These shoes are for walking—not to make you look like Cinderella!"

There's a moral for you. If a man can underestimate his shoe size, how much easier it is for a woman to cram her feet into shoes that are too small. Another bad break for feminine feet is the economical streak which prompts a girl to wear her worn-out shoes with runover heels, or even soft, non-supporting bedroom slippers, for housework, and to save her good shoes for bridge, or the movies.

One woman who did that wrote me to this effect: "In the last two years my feet have gotten into sizes larger! I know this is due to wearing improper shoes around the house." She is quite willing to exercise if that will reduce her feet!

Foot exercise is fine. It won't make feet smaller, but it will help to overcome the damage caused by wearing improper shoes.

Spike heels are also tied up with trouble. The way you have to get around these days, you'll find out that too high heels can even make your back ache. The shoe manufacturers and stores are doing their best to sell you on the idea of a more sensible elevation. But don't make a sudden shift from the high and one-half inch spike to flats. First, go down to a military heel. Otherwise, the sudden drop will make your leg muscles ache so that you'll think low heels are not for you.

Take care of your shoes, especially the heels. If your heels are constantly wearing off at the edge, it may be that you are not walking and standing. Toeing out not only wrecks your shoes but weakens ankles and arches.

Wear stockings that are large enough. The foot of your stocking should be at least one-half inch longer than your shoes. Wear a fresh pair every day.

Contrast baths are a great comfort. Stick your feet under the bathtub faucet and turn on the warm (almost hot) water, then, the cold. Keep alternating. This stirs up circulation. Dry thoroughly and lie down with feet elevated on a stack of pillows for 10 to 15 minutes.

You need foot exercises. One of the best is to work the bare foot over a tennis ball or some other small, soft ball. Do this for two to three minutes. And kick off your shoes and walk about the room pigeon-toed, with weight on outer borders. A little footwork goes a long way toward better mileage.

When you have foot trouble you may also find it worth while to go in for legwork. Send large stamped return envelope for Ida Jean Kain's "Leg Normalizing Exercises."

Now that you are having to get more mileage out of your feet, you'll find it really pays to take special exercises. Here are two good ones—picking up a soft cloth or tissue with the toes and working the arch over a bottle or ball.

SAVE IT!

Conservation is in order today, so here's a hint before you discard that old dress. You can probably turn out a fetching new number by changing the bodice and sleeves. Color contrasts are popular. If it's an all black dress, choose your most becoming color and change the bodice and sleeves to it. One of the most effective color combinations is black with beige.

MY DAY: Heroes Speak

By Eleanor Roosevelt.

SEATTLE, Wash., Tuesday.—Last Sunday my daughter and son-in-law, with the two older children, went with me to Bremerton. After a very pleasant luncheon with Mrs. Taffinder, wife of Admiral Sherwood Ayer, Taffinder, commander of the Navy Yard, we visited the hospital with Captain Dan Hunt. This is not a big hospital as those in San Francisco or San Diego, but it has been somewhat enlarged lately.

There were a number of patients from the northern area, not all of them, however, from the battlefield. A good many boys get hurt on board ship. In all these hospitals there are a number of nervous cases, some of whom, perhaps, will never be able to resume work in the armed forces, but may be able to take up their civilian occupations again.

They have some wards for the care of Navy dependents, and I saw a number of wives whose husbands are off on foreign duty. Seven babies were in the nursery, and several children were recovering from more or less serious illnesses. This is not a separate hospital building as it was at the naval air station in San Diego, but is a part of the regular hospital. The patients pay $3.50 a day, just as they do in San Diego. I had not been at this Navy Yard since the President was assistant secretary of the Navy. We visited all the Navy Yards on this coast in the winter of 1914, and the change is simply breathtaking. What used to be a golf course is now covered with shops and great activity is going on everywhere.

Yesterday at noon I spoke here in Victory square. Ever since last May, Seattle has carried on noonday meetings in Victory square. Always they have a record of bond sales read. In addition, they make a point of bringing interesting people to talk at that hour on anything to do with the war effort.

Yesterday an Army band, belonging to a Washington, D. C., regiment, played very well. In compliance with Donald Nelson's request, the newspapers here, as well as in other parts of the country, are responsible for the scrap metal drive, and they had charge of yesterday's program.

To me the most interesting part of the program was the interviewing of four young officers: two naval fliers back from the Aleutian Islands and two boys from the Lexington. All of their stories were interesting, though told with great understatement, because the boys seemed much embarrassed at having to talk about their own experiences.

In the afternoon by daughter and I saw a picture which was taken in China by Mr. Mark L. Moody, an American businessman who has spent some 25 years in the Far East. We had exceptional opportunities for taking pictures when the Japanese took Shanghai and various near-by cities.

The film is called "Ravaged Earth," and he tells me his desire is to awaken the people in this country to the knowledge of the kind of adversity they have in the Japanese. They are certainly appalling pictures. If we need any awakening, this film should certainly open our eyes.

What Stocks Did.

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—(P)—	The stock market reserved its best action today for the final hour which was marked by flurry of buying in aircraft, copper, rubbers, low-priced motors, ship-building stocks and specialties.
------------------------	--

On fairly stable ground prior to the late upturn, some of the industrial leaders emerged with gains of a point or so, but the list also was well punctuated with minus signs, affecting particularly the gold mining and merchandising shares and certain rails and utilities.

Many key issues played a relatively minor role in the day's proceedings and hesitation here was attributed to the absence yet of any sound clues as to what the tax bill will involve for business.

Weakness of the gold stocks resulted from the WPB's decision to suspend production throughout the industry to release men and equipment to the vital non-ferrous metals field.

Gold stocks fell 5 points at the opening, rallied for a time and closed with a net loss of 4-3-8. Anticipating Canadian government action similar to that taken by the WPB, McIntyre Porcupine dropped more than a point.

Butts To Carry 3 Frosh In Squad of 36 Bulldogs

Emil Papa Added; Day-Coach Trip to Memphis Game Begins at 5:30 This Morning.

ATHENS, Ga., Oct. 7.—Wally Butts reached into his freshman squad for one other varsity man Wednesday afternoon as he sent his charges through the last workout before Saturday's game with the University of Mississippi in Memphis.

Coach Butts said he would carry 200-pound Emil Papa, a freshman from Pennsylvania, to the scene of the third game between the Bulldogs and the Rebels, coached by Harry Mehre, former Georgia mentor.

Papa is a left tackle and he'll probably see service, for that is one of Georgia's weakest spots, so far as reserve strength is concerned.

Thirty-six Bulldogs will be in the traveling party that entrains at the almost unheard of hour of 5:30 o'clock Thursday morning for a day-coach trip to Memphis. Of this group three will be freshmen, for in addition to Papa, Coach Butts is carrying Sonny Lloyd, fullback, and Lafayette King, end, both first year performers.

Playing in Memphis will be something of a homecoming for three of the Georgia boys. Garland (Bulldog) Williams, Bill Godwin and Lloyd all played in Arkansas, just a few miles from the Tennessee city. Godwin and Lloyd were at Blytheville High and Williams played for Forest

Mehre Pointing For Bulldog Game

ATHENS, Ga., Oct. 7.—When Harry Mehre was head football coach at Georgia he established a fine reputation as a man who invariably could point for a certain game and come out on the long end of the score.

Georgia is going to get a taste of that Saturday afternoon when Mehre leads his Ole Miss eleven against the Bulldogs in Crump Stadium at Memphis. For it's no secret that the former Bulldog mentor had rather take this one than most any game he's ever played.

And it's also no secret that Georgia's Wally Butts would like nothing better than a victory over Ole Miss, for since he assumed the head coaching job here the Rebels have never been on the short end of the score against Georgia.

According to Howell Hollis, who coached Ole Miss against Georgetown, Coach Mehre has a very fine first time, but like Georgia, is weak in reserves. That has been the predicament facing Coach Butts this year, too, since he has lost 31 men by one means or the other since the Bulldogs came out of the Orange Bowl.

All in the Game

Bulldogs Warned

Here's warning for Georgia, in a general way, from old Harry J. Mehre himself. Calm over the 14-6 defeat against the Georgetown Hoyas, Mehre said, "We'll play some good football this season unless something unexpected happens."

Ole Miss "definitely is pointing for Georgia," writes Bill Haynie, of the Ole Miss publicity department.

"Although Georgetown came out of the battle on the big end of the scoreboard, 14 to 6, the Rebels took a few hitches out of the capital city college's ego, scoring with a deadly passing attack during the first three minutes of play and pushing the D. C. team for their victory," Haynie added.

"Barring injuries, the Rebels will make good account for themselves against their remaining opponents. October 10 will find them bumping around Crump stadium looking for Georgia's mighty man, All-American Frank Sinkwich, and his Bulldog teammates. Against his former school—he coached there before coming to Ole Miss in 1938—Coach Harry J.'s major worry, that of his lack of reserves, will be his most uncomfortable thought," Haynie concluded.

Chunkin' Charley Conerly, sophomore ace, completed three fine passes in the only Ole Miss touchdown drive. The tosses were good for 13, 23 and 25 yards. He has thrown four touchdown passes in two games.

Ole Miss has a fine first team. Not even Coach Mehre denies it—and the fact remains that Georgia, under Wally Butts, has not beaten the Rebels up to now. There was a 28-14 setback in the first game, and last year's promenade in the moonlight ended in a 14-14 tie.

Sinkwich asks for a birthday present this Saturday.

Wally Butts will settle now for an outcome depending on one of Leo Costa's unerring extra points.

Foreign Report Letters going to Boys' High and Tech men in foreign lands these days tell of the Rambling Wrecks' great victory over Notre Dame and of the amazing performance of the little freshman ace, Clint Castleberry.

Folks around town who glory in the great success that has come again to Bill Alexander want to nominate Castleberry as an All-America back.

I'll go this far—he's an All-American boy and when Bobby Dodd calls him the most natural back he has seen, I'll subscribe to it 50 per cent.

Dodd never saw himself in action.

I look back now and recall one year when a famous picker of All-America teams, figuring Tech had had a fine year, picked up an Atlanta paper and clipped therefrom a page containing a Tech High school lineup.

When his All-America selections came out that year, a couple of Tech High school boys were named—one on the third team and another in the honorable mention listing.

Let Tech continue to have real success and the All-America pickers won't make any mistake singling out a youngster just a year off the campus at Boys' High school.

Don't worry about Clint getting too much publicity. Just bear in mind that as a high school star he was called one of the best backs in the country, and he was called it often.

He isn't a terribly big boy—that's the thing. He's just terribly good. A natural athlete.

N. C.-Rice Game Cancelled

CHAPEL HILL, N. C., Oct. 7.—(P)—University of North Carolina athletic officials announced today that the football game with Rice University of Texas, scheduled to be played here October 17, had been called off because of the transportation situation.

Director R. A. Fetter said the athletic council acted after receipt this morning of a telegram from Jess Neely, athletic director at Rice, requesting it.

Neely's request, Fetter said, was "to postpone the two-game contract for the duration of the war."

The game was to have been home-coming for North Carolina. No immediate plans were made to try to fill the date.

Mann Silent on Dodger Position

Cracker Head, Branch Rickey Leading Field

Atlanta President, However, Says He Is Satisfied at Poncey Park.

By JACK TROY.
Earl Mann, back from a trip to the World Series—he saw the Cardinals beat the Yankees three straight in New York—was being questioned on every hand yesterday as to his intentions concerning a position as head of the Brooklyn Dodgers.

From time to time Mann has been mentioned as successor to Larry MacPhail, and his trip to the series has been figured by many writers to be in the nature of business and pleasure combined.

But Earl, questioned here yesterday, simply said: "It's nice to be mentioned for the Brooklyn job with Mr. Rickey and Mr. Weiss, but I haven't received an offer from the Brooklyn club. I am still working for the Atlanta Baseball Corporation and am happy with the Crackers."

Latest reports, via grapevine, reduce the list of MacPhail successors to two.

RICHEY AND MANN.
Branch Rickey is said to be getting prime consideration, while Earl Mann, once in the Brooklyn organization and McPhail's

Mrs. Clyde King Wins in Shoot At Knoxville

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Oct. 7.—Mrs. Clyde King Jr., of Atlanta, paced the trap-shooting tournament held here Monday by the Knoxville Gun Club in honor of Gordon Hight, of Rome, Ga., recently elected president of the Amateur Trapshooting Association of America, and Miss Caroline Elliott, 19-year-old Nashville girl, who won the feminine section of the North American Handicap Championship not long ago, at Vandalia, Ohio.

Joe Chilton, of Knoxville, won the 200-target title race, with 191x200. Mrs. King was runner-up for the championship, won class C and also the women's title, and was one target better than the 186-200 with which famous Ike Andrews, of Spartanburg, S. C., won the class A division; and five targets better than the winning score of J. M. Walker, of Knoxville, winner in class B.

In the 100-target handicap race, Mrs. King tied with Dr. J. A. Elliott, of Nashville, with 92x100, and as it was too dark to shoot off for the title, they matched, and Mrs. King won.

Lincoln Team Arrives Today

The mighty Lincoln University football team of Jefferson City, Mo., rolls into town this afternoon for the intersectional battle with Morris Brown College, national champions, at Ponce de Leon park Saturday afternoon.

Lincoln, rated one of the top teams of the nation in Negro football, is bringing a large squad.

Morris Brown, smarting under a 13-6 lacing by Tuskegee last week, is expected to jump back and redeem themselves. Although they will enter the game as underdogs, Lincoln will have the advantage of meeting the Wolves in their back yard.

Coaches Nicks and Lockhart, entering their last day of hard work in preparation for the classic, feel that the game will be the toughest on their schedule.

Al Nelson Captures P.G.A. Title With 144

Al Nelson, of Ponte Vedra, Fla., won the Southeastern P. G. A. golf title yesterday afternoon by shooting a one under par 70 over the Capital City Country Club course, which with Tuesday's round of 74 gave him a 144 for the 35-hole medal play tournament.

In line with a policy approved at an association business meeting last night, prizes were paid partly in war bonds and partly in cash. Nelson's win was good for a $100 bond and $50 cash.

A stroke behind Nelson was Atlanta's young amateur, Gene Dahlbender, who put together rounds of 73-72 for 145 to top the amateurs. His first-day 73 led the field of 22 players. As an amateur, Dahlbender received no prize money, but he was awarded a $25 bond.

Behind Nelson among the pros was Bill Davis, of West Point, Ga., in second place with 74-73-147. He won a $50 bond and $25 cash. Third place money, a $25 bond and $25 cash, was won by J. C. Fondren, of Memphis, unsuccessful defending champion.

Four players tied for fourth place with 151. They were Hoke

Detroit Signs Paul Richards As '43 Catcher

Tigers Combing Family Men's Market for Next Year's Players.

DETROIT, Oct. 7.—(P)—The Detroit Tigers, who gave the Army too many of their single men and childless husbands to shine with in the American League in 1942, are definitely in the family men's market for 1943.

Acquisition of Paul Richards, 32-year-old catcher who managed Atlanta, of the Southern Association, the last six years, was announced by the Tigers today. Richards, who resigned from the Crackers September 26, has a wife and two children.

Only last week the Tigers bought Joe Hoover, 26-year-old shortstop, from Hollywood, of the Pacific Coast League. Hoover has a wife and one child.

Richards, who played with the New York Giants and Philadelphia Athletics before going to Atlanta, had been mentioned as a successor to Stanley Harris as manager of the Washington Senators. Harris recently resigned.

General Manager Jack Zeller, of the Tigers, leaving for a vacation at his Fort Worth, Texas, home, pointed out that the major leagues would meet in Chicago in December and perhaps then would decide whether to play in 1943.

NO MORE HOCKEY.

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 7.—(P)—A team without a league, the St. Louis Fliers will suspend hockey for the duration, C. D. P. Hamilton, a director of the club, announced today.

Typists Play W. Fulton; Hapeville Meets Canton

By HENRY DAILEY.

Two games are on the docket for Atlanta prep fans tonight. The Commercial Typists will take on their second opponent in four days when they play West Fulton at 8 o'clock on the North Fulton field.

The other contest brings together Hapeville High and Canton on the East Point gridiron. The kickoff is set for 8:30 o'clock.

The Typists will be seeking their first victory of the season when they tangle with the Owls.

They dropped a hard-fought 21-0 decision to Tech High Monday and have also lost to Boys' High and Lanier.

Coach Shirley Watkins reports that his charges came out of the Tech High scrap without an injury and that they will be in fine shape for the encounter. End Ed Fisher and Backs Horace Gamble and Ed Brown looked particularly good against the Smithies and they are expected to give the Owls plenty of trouble tonight.

Vic Hansard's gang blasted Fulton High off the map with a 45-19 thumping last week and they will be out to even up their record. They have lost to North Fulton and Gainesville.

The Owls have lost their best end, Gordon Plunkett, through an appendectomy and their ace punter, James Morgan, underwent a tonsil operation early in the week.

Jackets Look Tired In Dull Scrimmage

By JOHNNY BRADDERY.

Tech's regular midweek scrimmage yesterday looked as if the Yellow Jackets haven't quite yet returned from Cartier Field, South Bend, Ind., where they defeated Notre Dame last Saturday in one of the nation's outstanding upsets.

The scrimmage was ragged while first stringers were in there, on both offense and defense. Tackling was poor, line-charging a little better and blocking about as dull as little Willie's 10-cent pocket knife.

Things looked a little better when the reserves replaced the starters. But it brought little consolation to coaches, who figure Chattanooga will offer a little more of a test than the reserves alone can meet.

However, the Jackets probably will snap out of it today and Friday and be back on their toes for the charge of the Moccasins in Grant Field Saturday. After all, one can't expect them to recover from their long trip—and victory—in a couple of days.

Wisconsin Gets Nod To Cage Missouri Tiger

Tarheels Favored Over Rams and Georgia Over Ole Miss.

By PAUL WILLIAMSON.

The Williamson System hit down the middle with its "shocker" prediction last week, with 8 out of 10 correct. This week it's 15 "shockers"—the most startling predictions—and here's to electrifying results.

Here's an extra special prediction: Wisconsin over Missouri at Madison. That is a tip against the System's own ratings of the two teams, 94.1 and 92.2, respectively.

After that, take North Carolina to beat Fordham. Also take William and Mary over Harvard, Santa Clara over California, Georgia Preflight over Duke, Nebraska over Indiana, Hardin-Simmons over Southern Methodist, Virginia Poly over Davidson, Louisiana Poly over Marshall, Rollins over Washington and Lee, Brown over Columbia, and Baylor over Arkansas.

Referring back to Wisconsin over Missouri: The current Williamson rating of a team represents the team's standing as earned in actual play to date. Generally the rating is an index of how the team should fare in its next game. Statistically the team with the higher rating will win between 85 and 92 per cent of the time.

Representative football games to be played this week are listed below, with Williamson National Rating System. This rating is a measure of each team's average performance since the season began.

The ratings tell as closely as possible the difference of 8 percentage points or less of the difference in the ratings of the two teams. The difference of 8 percentage points or less of the difference in the ratings of the two teams.

Explanation: Figure after team is in the current Williamson National Rating Table, published earlier this week. Probable winners are marked in capital letters. N, night game.

September War Bond Sales in State Over Top

Incomplete Returns Total $8,308,195.75, Allen Reports.

Like the nation as a whole, Georgia last month apparently exceeded its quota of war bond purchases by a safe margin, State Administrator Marion Allen, of the War Savings Staff, announced yesterday.

Allen said incomplete reports by the Federal Reserve Bank showed sales in the state totaling $8,308,195.75 and sales as yet unreported unquestionably would put Georgia over the top for the first time since last May.

The state had a quota of $8,500,000, which remains unchanged this month. Allen said of the sales reported so far, $6,109,143.75 were of the Series E bonds including the smallest denominations and $2,199,052 of Series F and G which are the larger bonds.

He attributed the state's September record "largely to the intensive drive put on by the motion picture industry," but said increasingly widespread adoption of the salary deduction plan also was a major factor.

Reports covering all purchases of the larger bonds and purchases of Series E through September 23 showed these counties with the 10 largest totals and their quotas: Fulton, $2,139,975.50, quota $2,933,380; Chatham, $501,783.50, $705,650; Muscogee, $348,210.50, $380,000; Richmond, $332,321.50, $385,000; Bibb, $329,067.50, $390,400; Floyd, $112,328, $153,110; Coweta, $108,789, $84,500; Thomas, $106,315, $60,000; Troup, $96,209.50, $159,000; Glynn, $86,480.50, $92,300.

3 Dairy Operators Granted Permits

Three dairies, whose permits to sell milk on the Atlanta milk shed were revoked and who were haled before the city recorders for allegedly violating city laws controlling sanitation, had new permits yesterday because they have complied by the laws, it was announced by city health department officials.

Dr. James F. Hackney, assistant city health officer, said Mrs. S. A. Carroll, of Route 4, Atlanta; R. C. Kirkley, Route 1, Fairburn, and Brookfield Dairy, operated by R. E. Jolly, Route 2, Decatur, have been issued new permits and can now sell their products in Atlanta. All three were convicted by recorders when they appeared in court.

Products of 21 dairies on the Atlanta shed were barred from Atlanta when the department cracked down on enforcing the new milk ordinances and several cases were made. Dr. Hackney said his department will reinstate those which meet sanitary regulations as rapidly as they qualify.

Mary Anderson Is First In College Examination

A.; Martha Young, Girls' High; Joy Olson, Druid Hills High, and Juanita Clarice Mask, LaFayette High.

Nippon Warns People Of U. S. Flying Fortress

LONDON, Oct. 7.—(AP)—British listeners at New Delhi, India, heard a Tokyo broadcast in Japanese today in which a Japanese naval spokesman warned his people that the United States is building long-range Flying Fortresses which make such island bases as Midway and the Aleutians potentially dangerous to Japan.

The spokesman was quoted as saying that the new Fortresses have a 10,000-mile flight range and that with the United States piling up an "astronomical quantity" of weapons, "the war is just beginning."

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—(AP)—A federal grand jury today returned an indictment charging treason against Helmut Leiner, 33, Queens, gardener and German citizen, one of five New Yorkers arrested for allegedly aiding eight submarine-landed Nazi saboteurs on the United States coast last June.

Conviction under the indictment carries a possible death penalty.

This Year the Minimum Need Of the Community Fund Is $635,099.00

THE REASON . . . this amount was set as the goal of the 20th annual Community Fund Appeal is that it is the minimum need of the charities that are fed, clothed and taken care of by the Community Fund. The amount is higher this year . . . but only 3 per cent higher than last year—but we failed last year by $112,365. Since last year the cost of living has gone up for all of us . . . welfare agencies as well as individuals. War needs have created new demands on the charity organizations . . . men going into the armed services and women into business and industry have created demands for nursery services . . . raised new family problems . . . left more children dependent on the community for care. The Y. M. C. A. has been budgeted for $16,354 for the coming year. This is the first time the Y. M. C. A. has been included in the Budget Committee's recommendations. The need for the morale and character-building services is greater than ever before. The handicapped and the aged need continuing care. These things must be provided for, because these things make the HOME FRONT strong.

THE ANSWER . . . The Community Fund has a group of workers called the Budget Committee, who determined the minimum need. Working independently through the Social Planning Council, and calling on assistance and advice from more than 700 leading citizens, they have studied in detail the needs of each charity, balanced them against each other and against the services of public and private agencies, and their considered opinion is that $635,099 is the absolute minimum needed this year. This is the goal of the Fund Appeal. This is what Atlanta must provide. This is what Atlanta is going to provide.

Senate Approves Bigger Tax on Corporate Incomes

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—(AP)—By an overwhelming vote, the senate today approved a 40 per cent tax on corporate incomes above $50,000, after rejecting, 75 to 9, a proposal by Senator La Follette, Progressive, Wisconsin, to increase that rate to 50 per cent.

Patterson Tells Labor of Great Activity Ahead

Undersecretary of War Speaks at AFL Convention in Toronto.

TORONTO, Oct. 7.—(AP)—Robert P. Patterson, United States undersecretary of war, praised labor's contribution to the war effort today, but said the job ahead would require suspension of many peacetime standards as to hours and working conditions and 100 per cent observance of the no-strike pledge.

"In over two years," he told union leaders at the American Federation of Labor convention, "you have never failed us. You have given the most cordial cooperation to the department and to the nation in its time of need."

Pointing out that the United States had built its army from 300,000 men to 4,000,000 in two years, Patterson said:

"To equip an army of the size we have and we contemplate and at the same time to furnish our Allies with equipment, is the biggest production job we have ever tackled. That job calls for the greatest production effort by the Army and by industry, management and labor alike."

"Strikes are few and far between now. There should be no, and I am confident that as the full significance of the war is brought home to all our people, there will be none."

The undersecretary said people have asked what the size of the Army will ultimately be. The audience broke into table-pounding applause when he declared, "the answer to that question is that it will be large enough and strong enough to whip Hitler and his Japanese allies."

War Service Jobs Open to I-A Group

Men classified in "I-A" by local boards still can qualify for certain war service positions, if they have a high school education, according to an announcement made yesterday by C. E. Myers, regional director of the United States Civil Service Commission here.

"Delay in filling war service positions can cause a serious bottleneck," the Civil Service director said. "All men who are not now engaged in some vital phase of the war effort are urged to come to this office, 409 New Post Office building, and obtain detailed information regarding government positions for which they can qualify."

In order to meet the critical manpower shortage, he said, the office is remaining open Sunday afternoon from 1 to 5 o'clock. Week-day hours are 8:30 o'clock to 6 o'clock.

Sweet Potato To Be Tested As Rubber Aid

Laboratory Research Encouraging, Jesse F. Jackson Says.

SAVANNAH, Ga., Oct. 7.—(P)—Jesse F. Jackson, general agricultural agent of the Central of Georgia railway, said today efforts are being made to have a full-scale run made at an Illinois industrial plant testing the possibilities of the sweet potato in the manufacture of synthetic rubber. He said small scale laboratory tests have proved sufficiently encouraging to move now for consent for a full scale industrial run. The purpose of the test, he said, would be to obtain government approval for use of sweet potatoes in the commercial manufacture of synthetic rubber.

Bring Some Scrap, Enter Fair Free

Special to THE CONSTITUTION. LAWRENCEVILLE, Ga., Oct. 7. The Gwinnett county annual fair will open the gates Monday, October 12.

The fair will be sponsored by the American Legion and it is said by secretary and treasurer, Paul V. Kelley, that there will be no fee for admission. However, he further said, he expected everyone to bring a piece of scrap metal. A stall has been arranged near the gate entrance where the scrap metal will be deposited.

IF WE CAN'T FIX 'EM
WE CAN'T RUN 'EM

We hate to see, sitting there on blocks of wood, those 50 Taxicabs that have been retired from service because we just couldn't get them fixed to run in Atlanta's service.

We hate it because we know how much you need those cabs to get around in this town. The way Atlanta is laid out, you have to go down one side and up the other if you have no private automobile or a cab to ride in. And when you've got to go somewhere, you've generally got to go there quickly, these War days.

But our mechanics have been drawn into war work. They were especially good men, so they went extra-fast.

Our search for new parts is often fruitless, and you'd be surprised how a tiny part can tie up a whole cab.

We rate retreads, but the rubber for retreads is scarce, and we often have to wait.

You can see the handwriting on the wall... if we are not mighty careful there may come a day when even Taxicabs may not be there when you need emergency transport. Right now, they're running 24 hours a day, carrying an average of 2½ folks per trip.

Sark Raid Creates Verbal Stir; Prisoner Handcuffing Charged

LONDON, Oct. 7.—(P)—A 10-man Commando raid last Saturday night on Sark, smallest of the German-occupied channel islands, gave rise today to an exchange of nearly 800 sharp and hostile words in official British and German communiqués as to whether the British are handcuffing their prisoners.

By all accounts it was a very small affair—just another of the little night operations which seldom receive any publicity at all—while the 10 Commandos slipping ashore to get some information about how the Germans were treating the people on the island, and capturing five prisoners, four of whom were shot while getting away.

But apparently the German command saw something particularly inhuman in putting handcuffs on a man and was determined to raise the issue.

Threatening Reprisals. It waxed indignant, threatened reprisals, and devoted 400 of the 650 words of its communiqué, which also told of the battle of Stalingrad, to the raid and its repercussions.

The Germans said there were 16 raiders who captured five prisoners, bound them in fetters and then shot and stabbed two dead and wounded a third. Then the communiqué quoted these orders issued by the high command: "One—From October 8 at noon all British officers and men captured at Dieppe will be fettered and this measure will remain in force until the British war office proves that it intends in the future to issue true statements regarding the fettering of German prisoners of war or that it has full authority to have its orders executed by British troops."

British Deny Treatment. "Two—In the future, all British or Allied terrorists and saboteurs not conducting themselves as soldiers but like bandits will be treated as such by German troops and will be ruthlessly killed in battle."

The British war office, in a special announcement, denied any prisoners of war had been so treated, and said the German government could verify this by interrogating prisoners through neutral representatives.

Six Months Cut From Nurses' Training Time

Army Needs Many Doctors, Nurses, Convention Is Told.

AUGUSTA, Ga., Oct. 7.—(P)—A speeded-up course of nurse training that will cut six months from the present three-year requirement was announced at today's session of the Georgia State Nurses' Association convention.

Even less time may be required for students entering with college credits, declared Mrs. Frances E. King, of Americus, representative of the board of nursing examiners.

Immediate need of trained women for Red Cross work formed the basis of discussion at the sessions of the convention presided over by President Frieda Crete. Dr. H. I. Moore, of Sparta, told the convention that superstition and ignorance are the greatest obstacles to public health nursing today.

Dr. Moore spoke at a panel discussion of the public health nursing section of the association, which preceded the annual banquet last night. Approximately 300 nurses attended the banquet at which Miss Alice Stewart, director of nurses at the University Hospital here, was master of ceremonies.

At the panel discussion it was agreed that the public health service is feeling the effects of the war and is badly in need of doctors and nurses in the armed services.

Miss Carolyn McClean advised nurses to find out which department each layman is interested in and place him in that field of endeavor.

A Three Days' Cough is Your Danger Signal

Chronic bronchitis may develop if your cough, chest cold, or acute bronchitis is not treated and you cannot afford to take a chance with any medicine less potent than Creomulsion which goes right to the seat of the trouble to help loosen and expel germ laden phlegm and aid nature to soothe and heal raw, tender, inflamed bronchial mucous membranes. Creomulsion blends beechwood creosote by special process with other time tested medicines for coughs. It contains no narcotics.

Japan's War Record Traced at LaGrange

SPECIAL TO THE CONSTITUTION. LAGRANGE, Ga., Oct. 7.—"Japan has broken the peace of Asia six times in the last 50 years, with consequences always more involved than those that went before," Arva C. Floyd, of Emory University, told some 100 Lions Club members and their guests attending the weekly luncheon meeting at a local hotel Tuesday.

Dr. Floyd discussed the four causes driving Japan into the present conflict as being insecurity, hatred of white people, sense of being obliged to reach out for more lands and fear of Communism, before introducing his subject for the day, "Shinto, the Religion of Japan." In discussing Shinto, he traced the origin of the religion from 660 B. C. when the divine rule in a divine land began in Japan, and explained the burning ardor of the mixture of religion and patriotism that the Japanese soldier has.

Jack Lance, 47, will be back in court Monday after an absence of almost 20 years.

Back in 1925, Lance was tried in connection with the murder of Bert Donaldson, chief investigator for Solicitor General John A. Boykin, Lieutenant Petty said.
